Delegates Sign 111 Resolutions, End Lima Parley

U. S. Delegation, Content With Solidarity Pact Against Aggression, Sails for Home Aboard Liner Tomorrow; no Formal Treaties or Binding Pacts Reached at Conference.

(By United Press)

LIMA, Peru—Delegates to the eighth Pan-American conference met today to sign 111 resolutions, declarations and projects which they have approved, including the "declaration of Lima" with its pledge of continental solidarity against aggression.

The conference will end this afternoon at a plenary session where delegates will sign the conference's "final act" which lists all its activities.

United States delegates, content with the declaration of solidarity signed after many days of dispute, planned to sail for home tomorrow.

Alf M. Landon, Republican presidential candidate in 1936 and a member of the United States delegation, left for home by airplane yesterday.

Delegates, discussing their work today, listed their main accomplishments as follows:

1—The declaration of Lima on continental solidarity against aggression.

2—A declaration on stimulation of trade.

3—The denial of the right of foreigners to exercise collectively in an American country such political rights as they would enjoy in their own countries.

4—The denial, to the same end of preventing infiltration of foreign ideas in the western hemisphere, of the right of foreign groups to claim rights as national minorities in American republics.

5—A resolution declaring against racial persecution.

It was notable that in all the 111 projects signed today there was not a single formal treaty or binding pact.

The declaration of continental solidarity was the first of its sort. It was not as strong as United States and most other delegates desired. Argentina, however, refused to take part in any declaration which named foreign countries generally as potential aggressors. The Argentine refusal was explained on the ground that Argentina did not wish to alienate any foreign country.

Nevertheless, despite the general wording of the solidarity declaration and the absence of any provision for regular consultation among American foreign ministers, the United States delegates were well pleased and the general feeling seemed to be that the declaration was likely to be strengthened in future.

2 FOUND DEAD

Lorain Husband Finds Wife, Daughter Suffocated.

LORAIN—(AP)—Clasped in each other's arms, Mrs. George Cooley, 36, wife of a Lorain funeral director, and her nine-year-old daughter, Kay, were found dead today in their smoke-filled home.

The bodies were discovered by the husband after he received a call at work from his daughter, advising him his wife was ill, but failing to mention a fire.

Both bodies lay on a day bed in a downstairs room where a minor fire broke out. Authorities said they died from suffocation.

Cooley said his wife was subject to heart attacks and might not have been able to leave the day bed when fire broke out. Firemen said the blaze apparently was caused by defective wiring.

FOUR CHILDREN DIE IN BLAZE

Perish As Fire Sweeps Log House In West Virginia.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va.—(AP)—Four children, ranging in age from eight months to six years, perished early today as fire swept the two-story log house of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Garthee, 15 miles from here.

Garthee was severely burned about the hands and face in an effort to save the frantic children, Coroner F. X. Schuller said. The mother escaped injury.

Dr. Schuller said the fire apparently started from a defective chimney and the blaze was well underway before the father was awakened by smoke.

COLD SLOWS UP JOB REGISTERING

3 Stations Open in City But Few Unemployed Apply for Benefits on First Day.

Near zero weather which blanketed Mansfield with snow today slowed up the registration of approximately 2,000 jobless workers in the district as the machinery went into operation throughout the state for the payment of unemployment compensation benefits.

To care for a rush of applicants which failed to develop, a staff of nine employes were on duty at the local branch office of the unemployment commission at 50 North Diamond street this morning, and two persons each were at the city building and at fire station No. 3, at 40 Chestnut street.

Maurice K. Wells, district branch manager, said the issuance of appointfent cards, which reserves the time and date for the person to call and file his claim, was moving along "much slower" than was expected. He predicted that the scheduling would "pick up" before Saturday, the last day for the issuance of the appointment cards.

Wells said that registrations between now and the first of the yaar were intended to expedite payments of unemployment benefits by giving the eligible applicants specific times at which to present their claims at the branch office.

Appointment cards will be issued daily between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. at the three "stations."

Investigation of claims and activities of the Ohio State Employment service in attempting to find new work for applicants is expected to delay payments of first benefits until Feb. 1.

Wells said that payments up to $15 a week are to be made to jobless persons who have worked in any 20 of the 52 weeks preceding the filing of claims. Benefits also are available for workers whose wage falls below 60 per cent of their average.

Akron Autoist Meets Death as Car Overturns; Former Loudonville Man Dies.

Violent death, which stalked Ohio's highways in the wake of snow and rain over the two-day Christmas observance, claimed at least 31 lives throughout the state, but took a holiday in Richland county as only four persons were injured in and near Mansfield in an almost unprecedented number of collisions.

Skidding automobiles on slushy pavements caused 26 accidents inside the city during the last three days, Mansfield police reported, while state highway patrolmen said that they received 43 calls with a two-hour period last night during a heavy snowstorm.

Treated at Hospital.

Those injured, all of whom received treatment at General hospital for lacerations and bruises were Stanley W. Simmons, Port Clinton; Joseph Hamilton of Ashland, Miss Mary Wiltrout, 11 Cappeller court, and Walter Pearson, 76, rear of 311 East Third street.

Simmons suffered face injuries when his automobile collided with a parked truck on route 13, south of Mansfield at 7 p. m. yesterday.

Hamilton and Miss Wiltrout sustained cuts and bruises in a collision at 5 p. m. yesterday on U. S. route 42 in Lincoln Heights. Sheriff's deputies who investigated did not have complete details of the accident.

Pearson was treated for bruises, police said, which he sustained when he was struck by a machine operated by William Wigler of Lexington at the intersection of East Fourth street and North Franklin avenue at 9 p. m. Christmas eve.

McARTHUR—(AP)—A heavily loaded Baltimore & Ohio freight train crashed into a fall of rock near Hope in Vinton county early today, killing the engineer on one of its two engines. Both locomotives and 12 cars were derailed.

Coroner Joseph Strong said Engineer Charles Landrum, 54, of Chillicothe, was scalded fatally and that a fireman whose last name was Burke, also of Chillicothe, was burned seriously.

Strong reported that the rock slide loosened a boulder weighing about 100 tons which fell on the track. The 63-car eastbound train struck it at full speed.

New Invisible Varnish Makes Glass As Transparent as Air

(By Associated Press)

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—A varnish which makes glass invisible and transparent as air was announced today by Dr. Katharine B. Blodgett, noted woman scientist.

Colorless and thinner than a wave length of light, the film offers industry a new wonderland in the use of glass. It can be used on all kinds of glass, and it does two things never before possible.

First, it abolishes all reflection of light, from any angle and from any degree of glare. Second, it enables glass to transmit more than 99 per cent of the light. The best untreated glass passes only 92 per cent.

The lost eight per cent is equivalent to a dim haze, which has been unnoticed because human eyes have not prevously had a chance to make comparisons.

The glass has to be filmed on both sides. An ordinary pane seems to disappear, except for a faint trace of its edges. The edge visibility is due to the fact that the glass itself absorbs a fraction of one per cent of the light.

It is said that eye-glasses can be freed from all annoying reflection. Telescopes, using numerous lenses and prisms, will give a much clearer view of the depths of space.

MAPS PLEA FOR HUGE WPA FUND

House Appropriation Chairman Says U. S. to Continue to Shoulder Relief Burden.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Declaring that states and cities will not take the relief problem off Uncle Sam's hands, veteran Chairman Edward Taylor of the house appropriations committee, announced today that a deficiency appropriation for WPA will be rushed.

With WPA funds nearing exhaustion, Taylor plans to convene a deficiency subcommittee soon after congress opens to consider an appeal for more money.

Estimates of amounts needed to operate the WPA until the end of the fiscal year, June 30, range from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

"I plan to call my deficiency committee together as soon as the house is organized," said Taylor. "There is no doubt but that congress will provide funds to carry on WPA the rest of the fiscal year.

"The states don't want to take over the Relief load—in fact, they won't take it over. Neither will cities and other subdivisions.

"For 100 years states, cities and counties were proud to take care of their own problems. It was a noble, inspiring idea but it is gone today. Now they sit down pulsilanimously and wail for Uncle Sam to come and save them.

"They put congressmen 'on the spot!' when people back home put pressure on congressmen you can't blame them if they vote appropriations. If they want to stay in office they have to represent the people."

Christmas Over But Food From Baskets Isn't Gone

Muster-Cheer Supplies Last Longer Than Just One Day; 550 Needy Families Receive Foodstuff.

Food from the Christmas baskets was still in evidence in many homes today as economical housewives "stretched" the supplies in the baskets to cover three days instead of one.

The annual Community Christmas project, sponsored by the Three Muster-Cheers—The News-Journal, the American Legion and Warner Brothers Ohio theater—but made possible by the co-operation of hundreds of citizens and many clubs and groups, wound up Saturday night when at a late hour food was still being distributed from the Salvation Army hall.

Most of the cards for baskets had been honored by one p. m. Saturday, but men, women and children continued to come to the hall throughout the afternoon and evening, and baskets were filled even when there remained only potatoes, canned goods and cookies of the big store of food with which the gymnasium had been filled early in the morning.

FRANCO SPEEDS CATALONIA PUSH

Loyalists Trapped by 40-Mile Offensive Drive by 500,000 Insurgent Troops.

(By United Press)

HENDAYE, FRENCH-SPANISH FRONTIER—The Spanish Nationalists drove on two fronts into the heart of loyalist Catalonia today, trapping entire units of government soldiers, according to insurgent dispatches.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco directed a triangular offensive from the northern and southern points of a 40-mile front in western Catalonia. He reportedly had had 500,000 men in the field at the start of the movement last Friday.

The insurgent dispatches, disputed by reports from Barcelona, claimed success. In the northern end of the front the insurgents claimed to have occupied Vilanova De Meya, south of Tremp, initiating a new spearhead with the advance pointed toward Artesa De Segre. A final attack on the city was underway today. In the southern sector they threatened the strategic city of Brorjas Blancas, 14 miles east of Lerida along the road to Tarragona.

Loyalist authorities, admitting reverses in some sectors planned to force the civil populations of cities and towns behind the front

Mystic 'Solves' Theft, Tells Woman Who Stole Her Fowls

A Mansfield fortune teller looked into her crystal globe Sunday and told a Monroe township farm woman who had stolen her chickens and that she could recover a part of them if she put officers on the suspect's trail.

Acting on the mystic's advice, Richland and Ashland county authorities today were convinced they had solved a series of thefts of chickens, calves and cured meat from farms in both counties in recent weeks. Sheriff Dale Hammond of Ashland county expected to make an arrest this afternoon.

Sheriffs Hammond and E. P. Long of Richland county turned their investigation to Akron when Mrs. W. S. Smith of Monroe township revealed that a fortune teller had told her who had stolen 25 of her chickens Saturday night.

Mrs. Smith related that the mystic said the chickens were stolen by a former resident of the Lucas community. Mrs. Smith admitted, however, that she had given the mystic some helpful information by naming some suspects.

Sheriffs of the two counties found yesterday that automobile tire tracks in the snow at the scene of the thefts tallied with the tread on tires on the suspect's car in Akron.

Thefts included 25 chickens at the Smith farm, 25 at the Charles Zimmerman farm near Lucas, two calves in the southeastern part of the county and a number of hams from farms in Richland and Ashland counties.

FRIGID WAVE NEARING CITY ON WAY EAST

Mercury Skids Six Degrees in Six Hours, Stands at 12 in Mansfield at Noon.

SLUSH TURNS INTO ICE

Cold Spell Preceded by Heavy Post-Christmas Snow; Fall Exceeds Two Inches.

Zero weather by night!

That was the weatherman's warning to Mansfielders today, as a cold wave roared toward the city out of the northwest.

Preceded by a heavy snowfall yesterday, the mercury dropped during the night, stood at 18 at 6 a. m. today, and six hours later, at noon, had slipped six degrees for a reading of 12.

The forecast said the drop would continue and that zero weather would grip Ohio by night. More snow is expected to accompany the zero wave.

Two-Inch Snowfall.

More than two inches of snow fell in the city and county yesterday afternoon and evening. Rain followed, turning the snow to slush, and as the mercury dropped 19 degrees during the night, changed to ice and made driving hazardous. Minor accidents were numerous, and cars stalled on hills and even on slight grades.

Yesterday's highest temperature reading, according to Observer Otto Sprunger, was 37, registered shortly before midnight, 19 degrees above the 6 a. m. reading of 18.

City, county and state maintenance crews worked throughout the night clearing the wet snow from the streets and highways and spreading cinders on hills and curves.

Traffic Tied Up.

State highway patrolmen said trucks stalled on Lexington road south of the city limits last night held up traffic for several hours. Buses and automobiles stalled on grades in the city before crews operating seven trucks could spread salt and cinders on the dangerous slopes.

Hopkins Weighs Drive to Put Millions Back to Work

EX-WPA CHIEF SETS UP PLAN FOR INDUSTRY

New Commerce Secretary Meets Business Leaders on Co-operative Program.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Commerce Hopkins, it was learned today, is considering a nationwide drive to put millions of unemployed men and women back to work in private industry.

The man who formerly directed the government's vast work relief program has discussed the possibilities of such a campaign with business leaders here and in New York.

The drive, according to reports in both business and government circles, would be carried on by the commerce department in conjunction with the business advisory council and probably other business organizations.

Reaches All Sections.

Reaching into every city and town, it would be aimed at getting employers to cooperate in giving productive private work to as many as possible of the nation's more than 10,000,000 jobless.

Some well-informed persons said business leaders who had studied the plan professed to see in it considerable merit as a means of attacking the unemployment problem directly.

Methods for conducting the campaign are said to have been developed into a fairly definite program, so that it could start within a few weeks and be well underway by spring. It thus could take advantage of weather impetus commerce and industry received from the usual spring improvement in business conditions.

If Hopkins declines to put the system into operation, he is expected to rely heavily on the business advisory council. This was organized by his predecessor, Daniel C. Roper, to give executives in finance, industry and commerce a voice in federal policies relating to business.

Hopkins has disclosed that he would confer soon with W. Averell Harriman, Union Pacific railroad chairman who is head of the advisory group.

It was becoming increasingly evident that the work relief system would be one of the first subjects of congressional debate.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) of the senate campaign expenditures committee disclosed that a report on complaints of "politics in relief" was nearing completion. This was a major phase of the committee's investigation into the recent election campaign.

The report, which will be a state-by-state account, may touch off senate debate on relief even before the administration asks for extra funds to operate WPA until July 1. Furthermore, opponents of Hopkins' confirmation believe the report may give them some ammunition.

France Calls For U.S. To Unite With European Accord

PARIS—(INS)—A resolution calling upon the United States to join France, Great Britain and the Soviet Union to defend democracy against the "menace" of Germany, Italy and Japan was adopted today by the special congress of the French Socialist party.

Adopted by a vote of 4,322 to 2,837, the resolution stated:

"Active sympathy, such as that of America, is precious and necessary but is not sufficient. France's security necessarily implies the existence of a mutual defense accord to be concluded with the pacific states."

An unusual coincidence in a national contest swelled the chests of two Westinghouse men today. In a national merchandising event sponsored by the Sears Roebuck and company, first and second prizes were won by brothers of R. O. Jack Richards, who worked in Mansfield for more than 12 years, and who is now with the Sears Roebuck and company in Phoenix, Ariz., won $1,000 in cash and a $100 wrist watch, as first prize, while A. J. Chamberlain, with the same company in Akron, and well known in Mansfield, won second prize of $750 in cash. Chamberlain formerly worked for the Criqui Furniture company here. The way his friends tell it, the Christmas spirit that made Bert Dillon, gas station operator at Second and Hedges streets, so congenial when a "customer" drove up at midnight Saturday cost him just 10 gallons of gas. Then the driver called for a quart of oil, and while Dillon was in the station getting it—the "customer" drove away without paying for the gas. Sort of a Christmas present that he took for himself.

HITLER WEIGHS REBUKE BY U. S.

Chancellor Confers With Nazi Ambassador to Washington on Christmas Eve.

(By United Press)

BERLIN—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler is considering what action, if any, the Nazi government should take as the result of the rebuke with which the United States state department met a Nazi protest against a speech by Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, it was understood today.

It was announced belatedly here that Hans Heinrich Dieckhoff, German minister to the United States, had conferred with Hitler on American developments at Hitler's mountain retreat in Bavaria Christmas eve.

Though Sumner Welles, as acting secretary of state, administered the rebuke last Wednesday to Dr. Hans Thomsen; German charge d'affaires at Washington, the German public still knew nothing today about either the protest or the rebuke. Official sources were silent and the newspapers, appearing again today after a holiday suspension since Saturday night, continued to ignore the incident.

M'KESSON DIRECTORS CALLED TO TESTIFY IN MUSICA CASE

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—More than a dozen witnesses, ten of them directors of the McKesson & Robbins Drug corporation, became key figures today in the resumption of investigations into that concern's tangled financial affairs.

One of the first witnesses slated to appear before a federal grand jury is Charles F. Michaels, newly elected president of the drug firm. Michaels, successor to "F. Donald Coster" who committed suicide shortly after he was unmasked as swindler Philip Musica, sold 15,000 shares of common stock after a private inquiry was begun into operation of the firm's crude drug department where $18,000,000 in fictitious assets were discovered.

Another person expected to appear was Catherine Sikora, of Bridgeport, was was secretary to one of Philip's three brothers held here on federal charges. The brothers were associated with McKesson & Robbins or fictitious affiliated concerns under assumed names.

Despite their apparent inactivity during the holidays, federal investigators have been studying closely the blackmail angle of the "Coster" case. Acting U. S. Attorney Gregory Noonan claims he knows eight persons, two of them racketeers, to whom "Coster" paid untold thousands of dollars in order that he would not be unveiled as a convicted swindler of 25 years ago.

The state attorney general's office also swings back into action today, interrogating several persons who should have known something about McKesson & Robbins' financial setup. Among those scheduled to appear before this inquiry was John H. McGloon, comptroller for the drug firm. He and others probably will be asked to explain why no adequate investigation of "Coster's" manipulation of the drug firm's business and financial affairs was made before it became necessary to launch reorganization proceedings.

EAST AFRICAN ARMY MARCHING TO SOMALILAND

Newspapers in Paris Report Troop Movement; Daladier to See Chamberlain.

BULLETIN

PARIS, Dec. 27.—(U.P.)—The governor general of French Somaliland has urgently asked Paris for army and navy reinforcements, it was reported today, and the required aid has been sent. The Paris Soir reported from Djibouti that the governor general acted because of an Italian concentration of troops on the frontier.

(By United Press)

PARIS — Heavy troop movements from Italian East Africa towards French Somaliland were reported today in two Paris news papers.

Pertinex, writing in L'Ordre, and Mme. Genevieve Tabouis, writing in L'Oeuvre, asserted that contingents of Ascaris, the native soldiers of Italian East Africa, had been moved up to support a force of between 600 and 700 Italians who six months ago occupied six frontier posts which France claims to be on its side of the border.

Both writers, who enjoy international reputations as commentators on foreign affairs, said that recent reports indicated that the Italians had 91,000 Italian troops, 150,000 native troops and 130,000 "workng soldiers" in East Africa, against only a small force in French Somaliland.

Completes Program.

As the reports were published Premier Edouard Daladier completed his diplomatic program by asking Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary of Great Britain, to stop here on their way to visit Premier Benito Mussolini at Rome in mid-January.

It was understood that Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet wanted to emphasize that they were not prepared to concede any French territory to Italy and that they did not agree to any Italian effort to get Adolf Hitler of Germany and Chamberlain to "mediate."

The invitation to Chamberlain and Halifax was the third part of Daladier's diplomatic program.

First was the note delivered in Rome yesterday, acknowledging an Italian announcement that the French-Italian accord of 1935 was no longer in effect, and asserting that France is prepared neither to concede to Italy nor to grant additional privileges to Italians resident in Tunisia.

Secondly, Daladier completed arrangements for a visit to Corsica and Tunisia calculated to show Italy that France is thinking of defense, rather than concession.

Most of the scouts attending are from Mansfield, Galion and Shelby. The scouts will break camp Saturday afternoon.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Our Intelligence Held Up To Critical Inspection By Comment on Red Revolt

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—It is a hell of a commentary on American intelligence that any man can stand before the people so soon, historically speaking, after the Russian revolution and convince any considerable portion of them that this upheaval was artificially engineered from the outside by a mysterious group of plotters in white weskits known as the "international bankers."

And that the Americans at the time regarded it as anything but a glorious occurrence.

Lloyd George wrote that the worms which devoured Czarist Russia were bred of its own corruption and that it fell because every fiber of its power, influence and authority had rotted through and through.

"There was not enough strength left in its arm even to lift the scepter when its decrees were challenged by a hungry Petrograd mob," he wrote in one volume of his apparently interminable, always informative and highly profitable memoirs. "The revolution was the inevitable consequence of Czardom and not its cause. Bolshevism had practically nothing to do with the events of March which ended in the abdication of the Czar. When the revolution started, Lenin was a refugee in Switzerland. Trotsky was earning a precarious living as a writer in New York. The conspirators who overthrew Czardom were the Czarina and Rasputin, with the help of inept ministers whom they promoted and favored."

Lloyd George says further, on the authority of one who cannot be denied great knowledge, that the Czar himself was the unconscious head of the conspiracy, who never would have been chosen by any responsible board of directors to manage any business of any magnitude.

Moreover, out of his great, intimate information regarding affairs at that time, he adds that the "merciful disposition" which has been attributed to the Czar since his death was ill-expressed in his dealings with some of the worthiest of his subjects. Although the horror of the Czar's fate has been permitted to temper criticism, the old Welsh maneshaker says, criticism cannot remain silent if "provoked by truculent challenge."

Lloyd George also quotes from Princess Radziwill's book her belief that the hatred of Rasputin, openly expressed in the best society of St. Petersburg and Mossow, was only a blind for a campaign to overthrow the Czar himself.

"The more serious aim," she wrote, "was cherished by a considerable number of those sick of the graft, corruption and complete disorder and disgusted with the shallow, false and unreliable character of Nicholas II and the cold-blooded cruelty with which he was trying to suppress every aspiration toward freedom. The torrents of blood shed since he ascended the throne had alienated all respect and affection, and his subjects had come to look upon him as an impediment to the development and prosperity of Russia."

Not only that, but as reference to the files of the American papers of that period will prove to anyone who is willing to roll his own conclusions and reject adulterated package goods offered under religious labels by mass poisoners of human relations and historical truth, the American response to the revolution was acclaim, not repugnance.

Even though this country stood to lose an ally in the impending American struggle against the Germans, American traditions and the sympathies born of those traditions were such that the people of the United States smiled through their tears or wept through their cheers with the honest, if too naive, feeling that one monster has perished, anyway.

Yet now, as evidence that in sports the vaunted American education has failed to crack the crust of stupidity, there are Americans who listed agape and with unreasoning belief to oratory which would somehow have it that the Russian revolution was offensive to the American belief and that they indicated as much at the time.

If there were any great and cunning outside conspirators on behalf of communism, reckless of the consequences to religion, human dignity and freedom, they were the Germans who promoted the Bolshevik revolution in order to take Russia finally and completely out of the play on the eastern front, grab the Ukraine and release German armies for the final military struggle in France. It was the Germans who gave safe conduct through Germany for Lenin and other Bolshevik leaders, inviting them to do their stuff, and the final, localized blame for the Bolshevism that the Nazis and their American ecclesiastical fellow-travelers are always viewing with such horror is a damned spot on the soul of the German nation which will not out while truth lives.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Hollywood has declared war on the Nazis. The kettle of resentment is boiling, and the lid's off. The town is going to turn out some sizzling pictures showing just how and what—but whoa, there!

Is the lid off—or is that steam just pounding heavily at the commercial cover that keeps emotional Hollywood in check?

The Warner Bros. (who have no outlet in Germany, anyway) say they're going to film "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," a yarn based on the recent espionage trial in New York.

Charlie Chaplin (whose films are banned in Germany, too) is going to wear a familiar little mustache and a familiar haircut in his projected burlesquing of dictators.

Walter Wanger has ready to go, but with no starting date set, his version of "Personal History," in which a disgusted American lad will see that parts of Europe—especially Jew-persecuting Germany—make the U. S. A. look like Paradise. (Mr. Wanger created a fuss earlier this year with his anti-war film "Blockade.")

Other titles like "Concentration Camp" are on the fire, and at least one yarn on the German-American Bund is under consideration.

DOES all this mean that Hollywood, hitherto commercially supine to the dictates of all potentially profitable markets, is emancipated in a wave of righteous wrath? Does it mean that the screen, traditionally devoted to hokum entertainment, is going to plunge recklessly into sides-taking on world issues? Well, maybe. But the questions have more angles than meet the eye.

Large in the debating is Hollywood's dwindling (but still important to some studios) foreign market. Hollywood knows little about its actual receipts from abroad as of today, its New York headquarters doing the tab-keeping. But an authentic source a few months back estimated Hollywood's take from continental Europe at only 5 per cent of its world gross—a sum which conceivably might be sacrificed for an ideal.

AND yet other factors enter here. Next to the United States (about 5 per cent) Hollywood's most important market is the British Empire (about 26 per cent). Hitler's displeasure, if London remains conciliatory with Berlin, might be effective. One of Hollywood's historic nightmares has been the joining of politically allied nations in action on controversial films. Turkey alone, for example, could not have shelved Metro's "40 Days of Musa Dagh," but by enlisting the sympathies of her political allies, she has covered that script with three years' dust.

There is nothing in the movie production code to prevent any producer from making any picture he desires, within the bounds of good taste. But here's an interesting possibility: Several local companies have extensive investments in Europe, in theaters, branch offices and real estate, in addition to what's left of their film markets. They'll want to protect those investments.

Whatever happens—and your guess is good, too—the outcome of the anti-dictator films (if made) shapes up as Hollywood's hottest news of the New Year.

GALION GIRL BRIDE OF HOBART C. LIME

Formal Ceremony Performed Christmas Day at First Methodist Church: Rev. W. N. Robertson Officiated at Service.

THE Christmas day wedding of Miss Ava Viona Swartz, daughter of Mrs. W. O. Swartz, Galion, and Hobart C. Lime, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Y. Lime, 21 Flint street, was solemnized Sunday at the First Methodist church at 12:30 p. m. Rev. W. N. Robertson, pastor of the Galion church, officiated for the ceremony which was performed before members of the immediate families and a few friends.

Preceding the ceremony there was a 15 minute program of nuptial music followed by the Lohengrin wedding march. The altar of the church was decorated with a large basket of chrysanthemums.

Wearing a white marquisette wedding gown fashioned on princess lines over a white satin foundation, a white finger-tip veil caught with a band of orange blossoms, the bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Joseph Korb of Galion. The bride's costume was completed with a strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom, and a shower bouquet of white chrysanthemums, lilies and and baby breath.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Muriel Swartz, who wore a teal blue taffeta dress trimmed in wine velvet. The dress was made with a hoop skirt, and the attendant wore accessories in wine. Her bouquet was fashioned of yellow chrysanthemums.

Robert Bride, jr., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man.

Following the ceremony there was a wedding dinner served at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Korb, to the bridal party and families. Later in the day the couple left for a Florida honeymoon, and when they return they will make their home at 501 East Townview circle. For traveling Mrs. Lime wore a black chiffon velvet ensemble with matching accessories.

After her graduation from Galion high school in 1926, the bride was graduated from the Ohio University at Athens in 1933. In 1934-35 she taught vocational home economics in the Galion Senior high school, and at the time of her marriage was home demonstration agent of Tuscarawas county at New Philadelphia.

The bridegroom is an industrial art instructor at John Simpson Junior high school, and was graduated from Mansfield high school in 1926 and from Ohio university in 1934.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. A. Y. Lime, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bride, jr., and daughter, Billie, all of Mansfield; Mr. and Mrs. Albert McJunkin and daughter, Martha Carol, Crestline; and Mr. and Mrs. John Croneis, Bucyrus.

Miss Jeanne Small, Cleveland Man Married Here Yesterday

AT 4 O'CLOCK yesterday afternoon in the First Congregational church Rev. Peter Young read the simple ceremony which united in marriage Miss Jean Elizabeth Small, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Small, 111 West Second street, and Russell V. Myer, Cleveland, son of C. C. Myer, Mansfield.

Miss Louise Krause, organist, played "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacobs Bond: "Ave Maria" by Schubert and the two wedding marches. Miss Small, who wore a teal blue dress with brown accessories and a shoulder corsage of Johanna Hill roses and stevia, was given in marriage by her father at the church altar which was decorated with Christmas trees and two seven-branch candelabra.

The unattended couple left for a southern wedding trip, and they will make their home in Cleveland upon their return to Ohio.

The former Miss Small is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware, and has been a teacher at Bowman school. Mr. Myer is a graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology, and is associated with the American Gas association testing laboratories at Cleveland.

Department orders were read, and the year's business was finished before the Christmas party. A buffet luncheon was served from a long table which was centered with a lighted tree and tapers. Mrs. Jennie Donnan, oldest member of the tent, poured coffee. The members then had a gift exchange.

Arrangements were made by Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell, assisted by Mrs. Garrett, Mrs. Alice Oster and Mrs. Bertha Droz. The next meeting will be Jan. 9 at which time new officers will be installed.

QUIZ 4,400th 'SUSPECT'

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Detectives Peter Merylo and Martin Zalweski observed Christmas yesterday by questioning the 4,400th "suspect" in Cleveland's torso murders.

Informally Speaking...

My Dear Lucy:

The festive Christmas holidays, which we planned for so long, are over . . . but pleasant memories of the three exciting days linger on. . . . I don't know about you, but take it from me, the days here were really exciting!

* * *

IT WAS Friday evening, before the Beta Sigma Phi Christmas formal, that Chuck Spreng presented Betty Hout with a beautiful diamond engagement ring—a thrilling Christmas present for any girl! The couple announced their engagement informally to a group of friends at the Spreng home on Park avenue west before the dance Friday.

Betty looked especially lovely for the happy occasion in a blue lace formal with a short bolero jacket . . . and the dress was trimmed with net in the same shade of blue. In definite contrast to Betty's blue, Janet Olin created a striking effect in a cerise chiffon gown with drop shoulders.

WHITE, which is always good for holiday wear, was very much in evidence at the dance. . . . Both Betty Zediker's and Helen Isaly's fluffy net formals were trimmed in red velvet . . . a combination which was most appropriate for the Christmas dance.

There were lots of open houses over the week-end . . . with old friends meeting for the first time in months . . . and new acquaintances being made on all sides. The Palmer sisters, Judy, Jerry and Patty, entertained at the home of their grandparents, the Charles B. Bushnell's, on Sturges avenue, Saturday afternoon. The unusual thing about this gathering was that the guests were of pre-college, college and post-college ages.

SANCHEN CUTTER and her brother, Weston, entertained friends at their home on Davis road Christmas eve, while Elizabeth and John Bissman, Park avenue west, had an open house Sunday afternoon.

Saturday was an exciting day in the J. H. Finefrock household, for early that morning Carolyn arrived from New York City . . . her first visit to Mansfield since last September. Carolyn was graduated from Flora Stone Mather last June and since September she has been enrolled in the school of retailing at New York university. After three months of the big city, Carolyn makes no bones about her dislike for New York—she says you have to look too far for the sunshine. . . . On a bright day, if you stretch your neck, she says, you can see a little patch of sunshine on the corner of an apartment building three doors away!

Sunday afternoon, Carolyn's friend, Rupert Beckstett, arrived from Cleveland to help celebrate her homecoming . . . and he'll probably be down often during the next few days, because Carolyn isn't returning to New York until next Monday.

ANOTHER out-of-town visitor was Dorothy Burrage, who drove down from Cleveland Saturday afternoon to spend the week-end with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sullens, on Parkwood boulevard. This visit certainly did please Dorothy's grandfather, E. I. Burrage, who is visiting at the Sullens home. . . . Mrs. Sullens is his daughter. Mr. Burrage, who is just 80, enjoys solitaire . . . so he counted Dorothy's gift as one of the best. . . . It's a card table with only one leg so that it can be put up in a minute anywhere . . . a grand convenience for anyone . . . and especially a lover of solitaire.

Jane Weaver Pyle returned to Mansfield for Christmas to visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weaver, Sherman avenue. Jane came down from Kokomo, Ind., with her husband and young daughter, Sally Jane. . . . And such proud grandparents you've never seen before . . . or maybe you have . . . because I guess they're all pretty proud, aren't they?

"And a very fine time was had by all" might well be a catch line for the Our club dance at the Leland last night. Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Wearner were in charge of arrangements for the affair, at which Dana Jenny, just back from New York for the holidays, was wearing the latest in fashionable evening dress. Her black taffeta gown was cut with a V neck and tiny puffed sleeves. A roman striped velvet sash served to heighten the smart simplicity of the frock. Dana had a black taffeta kerchief tied round her head . . . and not even a stray blond curl peeped out. . . . This was something I'd never seen in these parts before, so it must be definitely New York. Dick Spreng squired Dana to the dance.

UNUSUAL gifts and cards were also very much in evidence this Christmas season I suppose you remember Miriam Gross' bulldog, Chummie . . . well, he died last month . . . and so Miriam felt quite sad because she'd become very attached to him during the 12 years he was her pet. You can well imagine her joy and surprise on Christmas eve, when her husband, John, gave her a young bull pup—the very image of the much-mourned Chummie. . . . Indeed a pleasant and lasting Christmas gift!

An attractive and unusual card was the one sent by J. E. Willis, who is vacationing in Honolulu these days. The card itself was gold and white . . . with a beautiful tinted photograph of the Aloha Tower in Honolulu on the front . . . and a verse inside read, "With Aloha and best wishes from the Paradise of the Pacific." It was Mr. Willis' daughter, you remember, who married James Young, correspondent for the International News Service, in Tokyo.

You asked about Chuck Stamm in your last letter. . . . I too have been wondering what's happened to him since he was graduated from Ohio State a couple of years ago. I hear his mother is going to visit in Mansfield next week-end . . . so I'll scout around and see if I can gather up some information for you by next time I write.

* * *

No doubt you'll be as busy as I this short week, so have a Happy New Year, and I'll drop you a line next Tuesday.

Lovingly,
MARIANNE.

Alexandria Resents Nuptial Rush

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

When Elkton, Md., the country's Gretna Green, announced its intention of shutting down on its lightning marriages, there was weeping and wailing from the clergymen whose front lawns bore yard-wide signs stating that marriages could be performed within.

The Rev. C. M. Cope, one of the leaders of the marrying champions—he'd performed over 500 marriages in one month—is quoted as saying: "This is an awful thing the voters have done; the state is losing $250,000 in revenue."

Other clergymen who conduct marital marathons are equally aroused, but there isn't space to quote them.

Elkton held the record for marrying in haste, after the District of Columbia put across its 72-hour marriage law last year. The trade rushed to Elkton, where young persons sped in cars to have the matrimonial knot tied before they changed their minds.

The hurry-up marriage business then turned a wishful eye on Alexandria, Va., as being the nearest place which demanded no two-day residential requirement. But Alexandria didn't relish this new business. With pride, it tells you that George and Martha Washington stopped there.

Why should the most aristocratic town in the United States, Alexandria, Va., take over Elkton's helter-skelter marriages? Just because they've never thought it necessary to require ladies and gentlemen to take out a 72-hour license before the ceremony is performed.

Worse and more of it, the cabdrivers of Washington, D. C., to the further rage of the Colonial dames of Alexandria, favor old Alexandria rather than Arlington. The reason is sordid. The cab-fare to Alexandria is $1.40 while you may rush to Arlington for only $1.10. Naturally the cabbies are for Alexandria, where George Washington's pew may be seen in Christ church.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Dec. 28.

THE SPIRIT of Christmas still abides with surprising force and joyousness, fostered by most benefic planetary auspices. Social, domestic and romantic activities still hold the interest, largely because of some subtle and fascinating events that spell intrigue, secrecy or undercover attachments. But these carry a menace of malice, gossip or deep hostility that should be guarded against.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves engulfed in a year in which the sentimental, romantic, social and artistic engage the attention, relegating more sordid activities into the background unless they partake of this more alluring quality. Intrigues and secrecy abound in this connection, calling for discretion and wariness against gossip, slander and bitter attack. Friends, especially women, may be appealed to for support.

A child born on this day may be devoted to the cultural, mystical, romantic and probably the curious and unusual, rather than the practical and sordid. It may have an out-of-the-ordinary gift for fine creative art expression.

A siphon of charged water is an excellent fire extinguisher, as the carbonic acid gas in the water helps to stifle the flames. The siphon can be tilted, and the fluid will carry to a considerable height such as the top of a blazing curtain.

My Neighbor Says:

When sprinkling flat pieces, such as towels, pillow-slips, napkins, curtains, handkerchiefs and so forth, for ironing, dip one article in five in clear water, squeezing, not wringing, as dry as possible. Lay flat two dry articles, then one wet one, then two dry, and so on, rolling tightly, when all are done There will be no dry spots and every piece will be a good even dampness. It is a pleasure to iron clothes dampened this way.

If the kitchen oilcloth looks shabby, as it does when the colors begin to wear off, it may be made to look equal to new by being treated in the following manner: Use brown paint—four or five cans will cover a large floor. Choose a time when the kitchen can be closed for two days. Coat the oilcloth carefully and when thoroughly dry give it a good polishing with furniture cream.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Neither Noel nor I have been outside these rooms. But Auntie Madge—" she stopped and her eyes flew to mine.

"—is not going out again until you leave here," Dicky interposed smoothly, saving me the task of answering her.

"But how are we going to get news of what Father Veritzen is doing?" Mary asked quickly.

"Why do you need any?" Dicky countered comfortably. "Miss Whitlock has told him you are in South Jersey, and that your aunt went off in such a hurry the celebrated mind forgot to function, and she left no address. She promised to telephone him the minute she heard from the aforesaid brilliant mentality."

"That ought to hold him for a day or two," Dicky went on, skilfully skirting the fact of Philip Veritzen's actual presence in the city. "But even if he should take it into his mind to travel up to the city, what good will it do him? He can't very well start a hue and cry after you, and without that he hasn't a chance of tracing you here. With your assumed names, and what your aunt has told me of your success in getting here unobserved, you're in absolute sanctuary as long as you stay indoors. Except that staying constantly immured might arouse the curiosity of the hotel people here, you could stay here a year undetected."

"I wish we could," Mary sighed.

"But you can't, you know," Dicky retorted practically, "so you'd better make the most of the time you have."

"When do you plan to have us leave here?" Noel asked me.

"The day after tomorrow," I answered promptly, glad to have something I could utter truthfully. "Your uncle has such a wonderful plan! Tell it to them, dear."

He rapidly outlined the plan for his going to the secluded home of his friend, Thorp, in South Jersey, and giving him a letter written by me to Miss Whitlock, a letter which Thorp would mail to the Lansfield on the morrow, and which the nurse would immediately telephone to Philip Veritzen.

"When he gets that message, you won't be able to see him for the dust from his chariot wheels as Otto drives him to South Jersey," Mary commented.

"Exactly," Dicky returned, "and while he's trying to get in touch with Thorp, who has no telephone and lives in guarded seclusion, you and your aunt will double back to the hotel, and I personally will drive Noel back to the farmhouse.

When the gifted theatrical producer finally gets to Thorp and is told that you left suddenly an hour or two before because you were so much better, and was so wild to get back to your work, you will be safely back at the Lansfield, ready to receive any telephone messages he may wish to give you."

Mary's hand fluttered to her throat again.

"That means I'll have to talk to him," she said, with lurking hysteria in her voice.

"NOTHING of the kind," Dicky said robustly when Mary betrayed her hysterical fear of having to talk with Philip Veritzen upon her return to the Lansfield.

But don't you worry your head another second about your father-in-law as far as this outing goes. I've got the mechanics of getting you back unsuspected right at my finger-tips, and your aunt can handle the great man with one hand tied behind her.

"I know she's the world's best bet," she said, flashing me an affectionate smile. "And I'll try to play up. I'm not going to think about it any longer, but just 'count the hours apart' we have left. But suppose you all come over into our siting room. There's more room."

"How's the role going, Mary? I've lost track. Is it a pretty hard road you're treading, or is the traveling getting a bit easier?" Dickie asked.

"It would be a lot easier," Mary said despondently, "if I only knew whether or not there was the slightest use in going on."

"Mary!" I exclaimed as if sending her a warning, although again she unwittingly had played into my hands

She looked at me in swift contrition.

"Oh!" she exclaimed. "I'm so sorry. I ought not to have spilled the beans, I suppose. And yet," she added with a note of defiance in her voice ,"I don't know why they shouldn't be told just what Noel's father is planning for me."

"What is all this?" Noel demanded, and Dicky struck in with an imperative, "Give us the dope," which would have convinced anyone of his ignorance of what I was about to say, which I so recently had rehearsed with him.

"It is a scheme so diabolically clever," I began, "that only a superlative brain like Philip Veritzen's could have conceived it, and only histrionic genius like his could carry it out."

"Granted all that," Dicky said, grinning impudently at me. "Suppose you come down to earth and tell us what's doing."

"I can show you better than I can tell you," I said. "Mary, would you mind going through with the role in the way your father-in-law insisted that it be played? He coached her at first, you know," I added matter-of-factly, but with my eyes furtively scanning Noel's face to see how he would take this suggestion that Mary spend part of her precious time with him in rehearsing.

But as I had counted when I made the proposition, his curiosity, his indignation against his father, his fear of what the elder man might be doing, all combined to make him tractable, and there was real eagerness in his voice as he turned to his young wife.

"I wish you would," he said. "Do you mind?"

"No, I don't mind in the least. In fact, I shall be awfully glad to go through with the role as he taught it to me. But please remember, when you want to throw rocks at me, I'm obeying his orders implicitly."

Mince Meat Dishes For Holiday

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

When you've enjoyed th traditional mince pie, an integral part of holiday fare, you'll probably want some more mince meat dishes. If you bought a ready-made mince pie or if you went to the trouble of making your own mince meat, the chances are that you'll want something different in that direction. There's a swell dry mince meat package that salves the problem of providing mince meat dishes without much trouble. Like the majority of foods put out by our enterprising manufacturers, these packaged mince meats are easy to prepare and lend themselves t a variety of delightful variations.

Flaky rice drop is one such variation. To make it, break a nine-ounce package of dry mince meat into pieces. Add one-quarter cup cold water. Place over heat and stir until the lumps are thoroughly broken up. Bring to a brisk boil; continue boiling for three minutes or until mixture is practically dry. Allow to cool. Blend together prepared mince meat, three-quarters cup sweetened condensed milk, one-half cup chopped nut meats and one-quarter teaspoon salt. Fold in four cups rice flakes. Drop by spoonfuls on buttered baking sheet. Bake in moderately hot oven, (375 F.) 10 minutes or until brown. Remove from pan at once. It makes about four dozen delicious cookies.

Refrigerator Pie.

Mince meat refrigerator pie is a novel version of good old mince pie. Blend together one and one-third cups (one can) sweetened condensed milk, two tablespoons lemon juice, two egg yolks. Stir until mixture thickens. Fold in one cup mince meat and pour into a pie plate (nine-inch) lined with ginger snaps rolled into crumbs. Cover with a meringue made by beating two egg whites until stiff and adding two tablespoons granulated sugar. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) 10 minutes or until brown. Chill before serving.

Russian Mocha makes a nice drink for guests at holiday time. Served at night, it is a good idea to make it with one of the excellent decaffeinated coffees on the market, should there be guests present who insist that coffee keeps them awake. This drink is made by adding two squares of unsweetened chocolate to one cup strong coffee in top of double boiler. Place over low flame and stir until chocolate is melted and blended. Add three tablespoons sugar and a dash of salt, and boil for four minutes, stirring constantly. Place over boiling water. Add three cups of milk gradually, stirring constantly; then heat. When hot, beat with a rotary egg beater until light and frothy. Serve hot. Top with tablespoon whipped cream, if desired. It serves four.

The world will never get any better until children are an improvement on their parents.

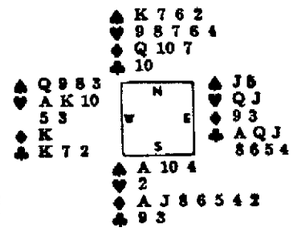
"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT A COMPLIMENT!

Every fine cardsman likes to have his partner show confidence in his ability to play a hand expertly. It places on him the burden of trying his best to justify the trust reposed in him. If it has resulted in his getting into a higher contract than he would have chosen, if able to see all of the cards, his greatest brilliancy should be called forth in the effort to find some possible way to make the contract.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

William Fellowes Morgan, veteran player of the Union club in New York, gave a spectacular example of confidence in his partner, J. Harlin O'Connell, former individual champion of the Inter-Club Contract league, on this deal. Mr. O'Connell, known to his intimates as Pat, needed all of his acumen to justify the confidence.

Mr. O'Connell had opened the bidding with 1-Diamond in the South. After a lot of calls around the table, Mr. Morgan over-called the opponents' unmakeable 5-Clubs with 5-Diamonds, West doubling and leading the heart K, followed by the club 2 to the A of East, who returned the heart Q.

Seeing no chance for the contract except by a squeeze, Mr. O'Connell noted that four entries to dummy were needed if he finessed for the diamond K. As the dummy had only three entries, his only chance was to save one by dropping the K. This he did with the diamond A, led to the diamond Q. ruffed a heart, ruffed his last club, ruffed another heart, then led two diamonds. On the last, West had to throw his heart A, making the nine good, or a spade, which he did, setting up the winning third spade trick for the doughty declarer.

Water One Of Nature's Beauty Aids

By MME QUI VIVE

Water—inside and out. That's what the doctor orders for health and good looks. Cold water is no good as a cleanser, but it is a grand tonic to be used when pores have expanded or tissues are playing out, losing tone. We might as well use all the resources at hand, many are of high cosmetic value.

Rare indeed is the complexion that is sufficient unto itself. It suffers a certain amount of wear and tear because of the ravages of dust, wind, strong sunlight. Nobody knows how long the champion complexion will stay in form. It may change suddenly in texture or coloring. It is dependent upon the general health, it is also dependent upon care. Daily care, continuous persistent.

The daily scouring of the entire body surface with warm water, soap and a heavy brush will impart freshness to the complexion because it helps the skin to function as an eliminating organ. A diet that includes plenty of vegetables, green salads and fruits is beneficial.

Use soap and warm water at bed time, never directly before going out of doors or just after coming in. Rinse away every bit of the lather; even the blandest of soaps must not remain on the skin longer than is necessary for the sake of cleanliness. If you are going to apply a cream, rinse with warm water; if you aren't, use cold. Dash it on with your hands, slapping the flesh briskly, pinching the tissues lightly.

Every morning use cold water when you awaken. Cold water is invigorating, rejuvenating. It orders blood streams to dance and prance. It tightens tissues, contracts enlarged pores. Be a water baby and get handsome every day.

In nearly all cases where cactus begins to wilt and die, it is because the roots have been injured by too much moisture. You can repot it now. The soil should be sandy, and see that it has good drainage. Most people water their plants too much in winter. When the sun begins to run high, then plants require more water.

KECK, HEAD OF SHELBY SCHOOLS, CAN ALSO WRITE POETRY.

By OSCAR RUHL
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

R. G. KECK, superintendent of Shelby schools, does not confine all of his time to administrative duties. He is poetically inclined, and can really turn out some decent rhyme.

Keck gave his fellow townsmen a sample of his poetry the other night at the Shelby high school football banquet. Here 'tis:

Listen my friends and you shall know
What happened in the league known as N. C. O.
It was nineteen hundred and thirty three
Since we've had a championship team, you see.
Our boys decided that thirty eight
Would be a Shelby year as sure as fate.
Our first game with Norwalk we easily won
And the second with Willard we played just for fun.
Mt. Vernon expected to trim us that night
But they too didn't cross our white goal stripe.
Then next came Ashland we conquered with might,
But Bucyrus didn't give us a very hard fight.
Then came dear old Mansfield, the largest suburb of our town,
Who always fears Shelby as a hare fears a hound.
Fans looked upon Mansfield as the Goliath of them all
But the tough little Whippets made the big town fall.
Mansfield boasted that their team was the best to be found
But our own little Whippets rubbed their nose in the ground.
Marion and Crestline were the next brought to test,
But they too got the ax the same as the rest.
The last of the season, the greatest of all,
Was played with Galion very late in the fall.
Two undefeated teams marched onto the field,
So tenaciously they fought but neither would yield.
This last game with Galion, played late in the fall
Was finally ended, thirteen to all.
Then here's to the team we're honoring tonight,
We're proud of your teamwork and proud of your fight,
And when football heroes are worshipped as years come and go,
We'll remember you as co-champions of the N. C. O.

Why Blame Dugger For All of It?

JACK DUGGER has been accused of pulling a "bone head" play in the Canton McKinley game when he scored a basket for the Bulldogs, but we're not so sure that the Mansfield high forward deserves the blame. How about the two teammates who took a couple of cracks at the basket before Dugger came along to sink the rebound?

Wade to Work Duke Gridders Behind Closed Gates for Rose Bowl Tilt.

By HENRY McLEMORE

PASADENA, Cal.—(U.P.)—Duke's Mixture ends today. Come sundown, and the Blue Devils of Durham will have made their final appearance before the public until they run out on the Rose Bowl turf on Jan. 2. Because tomorrow the Dukes begin the secret practice that Coach Wallace has ordered, and they will be as private as the thoughts of a clam, or a hermit's sunbath.

No pictures. No poses. No reporters. No notebooks. Burly guards have been assigned to all gates and given orders to bounce anyone with even an ounce of Peeping Tom or eaves-droper blood in his veins.

Wants Peace for Team.

Before the workouts begin Wade personally will beat the bushes and trees that shut Brookside park from the outside world, and his assistants will strafe any airplanes, balloons or gliders that swoop too low.

Wade wants peace for his team, and is going to get it at any cost. "I have been to the Rose Bowl four times," he told me, "and I know that only a 'no' man can hope to put a winning team on the field. By a 'no' man I mean one with enough will power to refuse the thousand and one invitations that a visiting team receives in California. They'll kill you with kindness if you aren't careful. The only way to protect yourself is to quit mixing, quit seeing people, and get off secret work."

Wade made it clear that he didn't expect to teach his team any new and startling plays while they worked in their secluded rendezvous. There will be no magical formations practiced, no new systems of attack or defense devised.

"We'll play the same game in the Rose Bowl that we have played all year," he said. "I have been coaching long enough to know that you can't take a team and make it over in two or three weeks. Our secret workouts will be along the same lines of practices we had in Durham. But we like peace and quiet. You wouldn't like someone looking over your shoulder while you wrote a story, would you? No, and an automobile salesman wouldn't care about 50 or 60 persons gathered around him while he tried to sell a car to a customer.

Trojans Know Plays.

"I wouldn't mind a small and orderly group watching our practice. I wouldn't even mind Howard Jones watching it, because he would stand on the sidelines, out of our way. As for him learning about our plays—well, I guess he already knows pretty much what to expect."

(Copyright, 1938, United Press)

Trojans Remain 2-to-1 Favorites Over Duke.

PASADENA, Cal. — (U.P.) — Southern California remained a two-to-one favorite today to defeat Duke in the Rose Bowl despite California's 13-0 victory over Georgia Tech yesterday.

It had been expected that if California scored a one-sided triumph, or even won, that the odds would lengthen. Duke beat Tech only 6-0 earlier this season but betting men remembered that Tech Coach Bill Alexander admitted that Duke was "content" with a single touchdown. U. S. C. beat California 13-7.

Ohio Gridmen Held to Tie

Fumble Costs All-Stars Score in First Minute.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(U.P.)—A team of central Ohio high school players played the St. Petersburg high school Green Devils to a scoreless tie in the second annual Kumquat Bowl football game here Monday.

In the first minute, Bill Munsey, fullback of the Ohio team, tackled a St Petersburg back so hard that he fumbled and Dick Zimmerman recovered on the Floridians' 10-yard line. But, on the next play, Munsey rammed the line and fumbled, with St. Petersburg recovering.

After that, the teams see-sawed up and down the field with either a fumble or fine defense stopping each offensive threat. Souders of Bucyrus was one of the Ohio stars.

St. Petersburg made 10 first downs to five for their opponents. The Ohio team will leave for home tonight and will arrive in Columbus early Thursday.

1938 The Year In Sports

Boxing

By DILLON GRAHAM.

NEW YORK—(AP)—This was the toughest year on boxing champions since the good Marquis of Queensbury tagged mittens on gladiator's fists.

In a year unparalleled in title changes, more than three-fourths of the fistic kings were toppled either by persuasive belts on the kisser or by commission edicts.

The twelvemonth also saw Henry Armstrong crowned as the ring's first triple champion; Joe Louis thrice successful in defending his heavyweight laurels; and disputed ownership of the middleweight diadem.

The ever-punching, ever annoying, ever-discouraging Armstrong, who began the year as featherweight ruler, strode through the welterweight and lightweight divisions to construct his triple-decked crown.

Armstrong's Campaign.

First, the little Los Angeles negro, strong as a bull, tireless as a perpetual-motion contraption, battered loose Barney Ross' welterweight diadem from its hinges. He plastered a terrific beating on Barney's blood-smeared face and body, but the gallant Ross was in there at the finish.

Then came Lou Ambers, a jumping jack in his own right, who gave Armstrong a spirited duel, and cut him badly on the lips, but lost the lightweight championship. Outgrowing the feather-weight class, Hank relinquished this title. Later he easily defended his welterweight laurels against Ceferino Garcia and Al Manfredo.

It took Joe Louis three rounds to kayo Natie Mann and five to destroy Harry Thomas in "warm-up" title fights for his real defense against Max Schmeling, the German who had knocked him out in 1936.

But Louis, a vicious animal stalking his foe, demolished the Teauton in 2.04 of the first round, setting an all-time speed record for a heavyweight championship fight. He wasted no time feinting or sparring, but rushed in on Max, who was unprepared for such a savage onslaught, and rained punches on the ex-champion. As he turned to aviod more blows, Schmeling caught one in the kidneys which he said disabled him.

The Muddle-Weights.

The middleweights provided much action. Defending Champion Freddie Steele was mercilessly beaten in a non-title go by Fred Apostoli, the belting bellhop from San Francisco. Refusing Apostoli a championship match, Steele fought Al Hostak, a fellow townsman from Seattle, with the title at stake, and was knocked out in the first round.

Then Solly Krieger of Brooklyn, beaten by Apostoli, won the title from Hostak by decision. He was recognized by the National Boxing association but the New York Athletic Commission decided Apostoli would meet Young Corbett of San Francisco, who had surprisingly bested Apostoli last winter, for the title. Apostoli won by a knockout. Krieger and Apostoli likely will be matched early next year.

The New York commission named Joey Archibald of Providence, R. I., as featherweight champion after he defeated Mike Belloise but the NBA ruled that Archibald must beat Leo Rodak of Chicago before it recognized him. Peter Scalzo kayoed Archibald in non-title fight.

Benny Lynch's flyweight title was declared vacant when he was unable to make the weight for a title go in England with Jackie Jurich.

Sixto Escobar won the bantamweight title by defeating Harry Jeffra.

Lewis-Louis.

John Henry Lewis is the NBA light-heavyweight champion, but the New York commission vacated his title because he failed to meet Tiger Jack Fox. Lewis then tossed a $100,000 law suit against the commissioners. Fox beat Al Gainer in New York's elimination tourney, and is to fight Melio Bettina for the title. Lewis signed to meet Joe Louis early next year for the heavyweight championship.

Barrel-contoured Tony Galento, proprietor of a beer parlor in Orange, N. J., a prototype of the Gay Nineties who trained on ale, pretzels and cigars, projected some color into the heavyweight situation. His antics, wisecracks, and crying for Louis—"Give me dat bum; I'll moider him"—drew attention to Tony. But Galento faded when pneumonia felled him just before a bout with J. H. Lewis.

Former Champion Jim Braddock narrowly outpointed Tommy Farr in January, and retired. Max Baer returned to the wars, beat Farr and lined himself up for a possible shot at Louis next year. Young Lou Nova became a possible heavyweight challenger by beating Gunnar Barlund.

Jummy Adamick's heavyweight rise was ended after a knockout by Roscie Toles sent Jimmy to the hospital with a brain concussion.

LOUIS lands a right to Schmeling's jaw. The blow all but knocks the Teuton out of focus.

HANK ARMSTRONG, the welterweight and lightweight king, flexes his forearm muscles. Joey Archibald (right) is the newly-crowned featherweight ruler.

Double X Wins Share of Honors With Bludgeon

By HARRY FERGUSON

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Jimmy Foxx, who appeared to be entering the twilight of his baseball career this spring, came surging back to lead the American league in batting with an average of .349.

Official figures, released today, showed that the big first baseman of the Boston Red Sox had one of the great seasons of his sparkling career. Suffering from sinus in 1937, it appeared that Foxx had lost his batting eye and was going the way they all go eventually.

He not only won the individual batting championship of the league but he helped club the Red Sox into the team title with an average of .299. Jimmy equalled another record when he hit a home run and a triple in the sixth inning of the second game of a double header at St. Louis on Sept. 20. That tied the American league record for extra base hits in a single inning.

Taft Wright of Washington finished with an average of .350, one point better than Foxx, but failed to qualify for the batting championship because he played in only 100 games.

The 10 leading American league hitters:

	AB	H	Pct.
Foxx, Boston	565	197	.349
Heath, Cleveland	502	172	.343
Chapman, Boston	480	163	.340

Travis, Wash'gton	567	190	.335
Trosky, Cleveland	554	184	.334
Steinbacher, Chi.	399	132	.331
Radcliff, Chicago	503	166	.330
Averill, Cleveland	482	159	.330
Cronin, Boston	530	172	.325

Hank Greenberg, Detroit's first baseman, led the league in home runs with 58 and tied Foxx's 58 of 1932 for the most homers ever made by a right-handed hitter.

Following were among the batting achievements of the year:

Detroit players set a major league record with 10 home runs with the bases filled.

Lou Gehrig of the Yankees made 115 runs, the 15th straight season in which he has scored more than 100 times.

Frank Higgins, playing third base for Boston, broke Tris Speaker's record of 11 consecutive hits by getting 12.

In a game against Philadelphia on Sept. 17, Mervyn Connors, rookie first baseman of the Chicago White Sox, hit home runs in three consecutive times at bat.

Wiltred LeFebvre, making his first major league appearance at bat for Boston, hit a home run against Monte Stratton of the Chicago White Sox on June 10.

American league clubs finished the season with the following batting averages: Boston, .299; Washington, .293; Cleveland, .281; St. Louis, .281; Chicago, .277; New York, .274; Detroit, .272; Philadelphia, .270.

PRESENT CODE ADEQUATE, GRID COACHES BELIEVE

CHICAGO — (U.P.) — Football coaches from colleges throughout the country open their four-day annual meeting today with changes in the basic rules unlikely.

Opinion among most of the coaches was that the present rules, which govern college and secondary school football, are adequate and that frequent revision of the code only confuses the average fan.

Ohio State's victory last night was its first in three starts on the trip, the Ohioans having lost to University of Washington twice. Capt. Jimmy Hull of Ohio State led the scoring with 14 points on six field goals and two free throws. Dick Baker, Ohio forward, made 10 points and John Schick, center, 8. Calkins led UCLA with 11.

Mansfield High Quint Overdue

Murphy's Courtiers to Attempt to End Three-Game Losing Streak Against Strong Vincent.

DEFEATED in every game since their opener, Coach Russ Murphy's Tygers of Mansfield high school will make their fourth attempt to register their second victory of the season tonight when they engage the touring Erie, Pa., Strong Vincent quintet on the home planks at 8:15 o'clock.

The Tygers have suffered three defeats in a row since opening their campaign with a 29 to 13 victory over Shelby, and they are overdue, Coach Murphy believes.

Breaks Hurt Tygers.

The Mansfield cagers have not played badly in any of their games, but bad breaks cost them three in a row.

A small floor cost the Tygers an overtime game at Cleveland West, and the loss of two mainstays in the third period while holding a fair-sized lead was a major factor in their loss to Hamilton.

Mansfield suffered its worst defeat of the campaign at Canton McKinley last week. The Tygers made a gallant comeback in this tussle, but were unable to make up the margin to which they staked the Bulldogs in the first half.

The Tygers should make it exciting for the remaining foes once they hit the stride they flashed in closing their 1937-38 season.

Little is known about the visiting Strong Vincent quintet, but if it is as strong as last season's team, the Tygers will have their hands full tonight.

The eligibility list received over the week-end reveals that many of the members of last season's quintet will return with the Pennsylvanians tonight.

Tygers Well-Rested.

Murphy expects a tough battle from the invaders, but indicated that his Tygers are well-rested from their Canton appearance, and should be able to give the visitors a pretty good idea of the brand of ball being played in Ohio.

The Mansfield lineup will probably consist of Tommy Scott and Jack Dugger, forwards; Dave Shelley, center, and Jack Lyons and Bill Herpich, guards.

A preliminary game featuring the Mansfield reserves against an unnamed foe is scheduled at 7 p. m.

Bulk, Bottari Beat Techmen

30,000 See California Win 13 to 0.

BERKELEY, Cal.—(AP)—Georgia Tech footballers prepared for the homeward journey today, after yesterday's 13-0 defeat by University of California before 30,000 fans.

The Techmen, who outsped and outsmarted the Bears much of the game, blamed their downfall on California's bulk and Vic Bottari, graduating left halfback who sparked two touchdown drives in the last quarter and scored one of them himself.

Bottari was kept well bottled up for three periods, and in the third period the Techmen opened up with a mystifying attack unlike anything seen in Memorial stadium this season.

But in the final period, after a promising California drive apparently had bogged down, a 15-yard penalty gave the Bears their opening. Bottari packed the ball on seven out of eight plays that covered 60 yards, and plunged over.

Then Bottari led another 66-yard march. Lou Smith scoring. Bottari drop-kicked the spare point.

Coveted Honor Goes to Nova

Rated No. 1 Challenger by Ring Magazine.

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Lou Nova, young Alameda, Cal., heavyweight, today was rated the world's No. 1 heavyweight challenger in "The Ring" Magazine's annual ranking of boxers.

His impressive victories over Gunnar Barlund and Tommy Farr gained him that coveted rating, editor Nat Fleischer explained in his copyrighted annual story in the February issue.

Champion Joe Louis, ranked as "the boxer of the year," was placed all alone in group No. 1, topping all heavyweights. Nova heads group No. 2 which includes Maxie Baer, Bob Pastor, Tony Galento, Maxie Rosenbloom and John Henry Lewis in that order.

Nova was given third place in the boxer of the year rating, behind Henry Armstrong, who won his second and third titles in 1938, adding the lightweight and welterweight titles to the featherweight laurels he won in 1937.

AVIATIONS FIND SUPPORT AFTER HOLIDAY RECESS

Buyers Encouraged by Reports President Will Ask for Larger Air Force.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — With trading resumed after the lengthy holiday recess, the stock market today shifted over a somewhat uneven terrain.

The aviation group found support following reports the president, in his message to congress, would ask for a combined army-navy air force of 13,000 planes.

Bonds were relatively steady, as were major commodities.

Modest improvement was registered for Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Northern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Westinghouse, Sears Roebuck and Johns-Manville.

In arrears minor amounts were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, International Harvester, Anaconda, Loew's and Standard Oil of N. J.

Most Market observers, studying the business come-back which got under way last May and June, thought the move might have rounded a peak for the time being which it is not likely to surpass until early next spring.

It was noted, though, that because the recession from the November high has been less than seasonal, trade indices have continued to rise. The federal reserve board's adjusted index for industrial production for November has been revised upward to 103.

TRAIN'S DEATH TOLL HITS 98

More Victims of Holiday Mishap In Rumania Succumb.

BUCHAREST — (AP) —Fatalities in the worst railway accident in Rumania's history mounted today to 93 as more of the victims of the Christmas day collision of passenger trains near Etulea, in Bessarabia, succumbed to injuries.

Investigations by cabinet ministers indicated that during the holiday travel rush some trains were operated in spite of a partial breakdown of the railways' telephone and telegraph dispatching lines. Apparently an order to have two trains pass at a station other than the normal one was misunderstood because of the wire trouble, attributed to cold and snow.

kets to the old age pensioners who had been hardest hit by the delay in pension checks. General distribution at the hall began at 9 a. m. under the direction of James L. Zimmerman of the Legion and Jane Williams of The News-Journal.

Many of those receiving baskets said the ham roasts included in them would be their first "good meat" in many weeks.

Although bills have not yet been paid today, it was believed that the Muster-Cheers would "break even" this year. Approximately $1,200 was raised by means of the Christmas ball and individual contributions and that figure was spent on food, according to Paul Eliot, treasurer.

Not all of the interest at the Salvation Army home was centered on distribution of the baskets Saturday, however. The organization played Santa Claus to approximately 200 youngsters Saturday afternoon, with entertainment, a treat of candy and a toy for every child. Dozens of dolls and mechanical toys were distributed by Adjutant and Mrs. David Brown. Harry Hawley, president of the executive board of the Salvation Army, and Mayor Claude M. Hunter, were among the guests at the party.

Monday noon, the Army workers served its annual dinner to homeless men.

Baskets were also given out to about 75 families at the home of the Volunteers of America Saturday and a Christmas dinner was served at noon Sunday. Mayor Hunter gave out the first basket for them.

In addition to these many Mansfield citizens and groups "adopted" families and gave baskets directly to them, along with toys and in some cases, clothing.

More than 2,000 requests for baskets were received by the Three Muster-Cheers. The list of 550 names selected to receive baskets was compiled by the public and parochial schools, the Boy Scouts, the city relief workers, the Salvation Army and the Welfare committee of the Federation of Women.

CUTS OFF ARM

Janitor Operates on Self as Hand Gets Caught in Stoker.

MINNEAPOLIS — (AP) — Henry Donnett, 32-year-old public school janitor, smiled cheerfully from his General hospital bed today over prospects of a speedy recovery from the self-performed amputation of his right hand, smashed and caught in a stoker mishap Christmas midnight.

Donnett's physician today told the patient his condition was "much improved," and that, barring infection, the arm probably would heal satisfactory without further surgery.

The accident occurred while Donnett was releasing a stoker plunger which had become clogged. Despite intense pain, he made a left-handed amputation at the wrist with his pocket knife, quickly stemmed the flow of blood with a crude wire tourniquet and then telephoned General hospital.

Faithful Mary Returns to Father Divine's Flock.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Faithful Mary, who backslid 17 months ago and called Father Divine "jes' a foolish old man who ain't no more God than a bobtailed puppy," has been reconciled with the little self-proclamied Messiah of Harlem.

Mary, known as Viola Wilson before she became the ace angel of the No. 1 heaven, tried to run a rival heaven of her own when she abandoned Father Divine, but it never was much of a go.

Next Sunday, in a robe of spotles white, Mary will make public confession at a meeting of the angels and others who follow Father Divine in the great "peace, brother," movement.

The Year in Review—

WRECK, WAGES KIDNAPING IN NEWS OF JUNE

A President's Son Marries a Boston Girl; 47 Die as Train Plunges in Creek.

By VOLTA TORREY
(AP Feature Service Writer)

IN JUNE, 1938, America read "My Son, My Son!" and "The Yearling." Movie-goers saw the Shiek" again, along with "Blockade." Colleges honored Walt Disney. Shirley Temple visited President Roosevelt and allegedly asked if he ever got tired, as she did, of smiling. Joe Louis kayoed Max Schmeiling in 2 minutes, 4 seconds.

Five-year-old James Bailey "Skeegie" Cash, stolen from his Princeton, Fla., home, was found dead after $10,000 ransom had been paid—and soon Franklin Pierce McCall, 21, truck driver, was found guilty in the kidnaping. New York's G-man Leon G. Turrou resigned after doing the sleuthing for Uncle Sam that led to 18 persons' indictment for espionage. Jersey City's Mayor Hague suggested "a camp in Alaska" for aliens who disapproved of American ways.

Chapter 6 of a Month-by-Month Review of 1938

This Year's Kisses.

Eight-year-old Rev. Charles E. Jaynes, Jr., officiated at a "wedding." And June brides and grooms included: Anne L. Clark and John A. Roosevelt; "Bubbles" Luckenbach, million-heiress, and William Dobbs, butter-and-egg salesman; Manuela Hudson, of San Francisco, and Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, multi-million-heir; and Countess Vera Fugger von Babenhausen and Kurt Schuschnigg.

A wage-hour law that the President called the most far-sighted program ever enacted for workers' benefit, except perhaps for the social-security act, was whooped through. Congress adjourned. And 22 hours later Sen. Royal S. Copeland died.

Labor trouble halted Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey's tour. Cleveland's relief situation was acute. Homer Martin's faction suspended five United Auto Workers union officers. Townsendites rallied in Los Angeles. Wheat was the cheapest it had been for five years and a record harvest was foreseen.

Commencement Mouth.

Federal spending was sped up; credit loosened up, and stocks started up. "There have been a few raindrops, "Mr. Roosevelt said of business. "Possibly they will be followed with a much-needed shower."

The Massachusetts professor who had become famous years before by advising college grads to marry the boss's daughter told the class of '38 to get on the public payroll.

Campaign Checker-Upper Sheppard frowned at reports that Deputy WPA Chief Williams had urged relief workers to keep their friends in power. And Iowa's Sen Guy M. Gillette beat New Deal Rep. Otha Wearin in a headlined Democratic senatorial primary.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul's crack "Olympian" passenger train cracked up in Montana and 47 persons died. A California gold prospector found wreckage of a TWA airliner that had been lost since March.

Here and There.

Sweden's Crrwn Prince Gustav Adolf became ill while crossing the Atlantic and his son, Prince Bertil, substituted for him as the 300th anniversary of Swedish and Finnish settlements in America was celebrated.

The Yellow river overflowed and halted the Japanese. Canton was oombed unmercifully. Mme. Chiang Kai-shek sent silver spoons to her Wellesley, Mass., classmates' reunion, declaring: "A spoon may be licked but China can't."

Spanish loyalists allegedly threatened to attack German and Italian towns. More British ships were sunk. Lloyd George likened England's rulers to "a bevy of maiden aunts fallen among buccaneers." And Nazis scribbled a June jingle on frontier posts, addressed to Szech President Eduard Benes:

Eduard, save up your pence
For Adolf soon will be over the fence!

4 MORE PAST 70 TO STAY ON JOB

Nist Approves Applications of Waterworks Employes to Continue in Service.

Four additional city employes who have reached the retirement age of 70 will continue to work for another year, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist announced today.

Nist said that he had certified the applications of four waterworks employes so they could continue in active service past the compulsory retirement age as set up in the new public employes retirement system. The applications of four other employes past 70 were approved by Nist two weeks ago.

Among the applications okayed by Nist today was that of Theobold Schmidt, pumpman in the water-works who had previously announced that he would take advantage of the pension plan and retire Dec. 31.

The applications allowing the employes to remain in service another year will be filed with the retirement board in Columbus which notified officials several weeks ago that these employes would be automatically retired unless their applications were approved.

Latest applications approved were those of Andrew C. Miller, John Dorman, William A. Painter, and Schmidt.

ASHLAND—Rober Imler, Ashland, was fined $5 and costs with $2 of the fine suspended after being arraigned in the court of J. H. Armstrong here on charges of driving a motor vehicle with only one head light and no tail light. Charges against Imler were brought by State Patrolman J. E. Ruch.

WOMAN AUTOIST SEEKS $40,000

Youngstown Driver Sues Shelby Telephone Company.

The Shelby Telephone company had been named defendant today in a $40,000 damage suit filed in Richland county common pleas court by Mary E. Rasmussen of Youngstown who seeks damages for injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

In her petition, filed by Youngstown attorneys, the plaintiff contends she suffered two fractured ribs and face and chest injuries last Jan. 2 near Uuuer Sandusky when an automobile owned by the Shelby Telephone company crashed into a parked car in which she was seated.

She charges that the negligence of Charles W. Wilson, the driver, was responsible for the crash which occurred along route 30-N just east of Upper Sandusky.

rlding with his wife skidded and struck a concrete abutment of a bridge and turned over.

Mrs. Paremeter, who was driving, is in the Willard Municipal hospital suffering from head and chest injuries. The couple was en route to their home in Akron after spending Christmas with Parmeter's parents in Logansport, Ind.

Parmeter's body was removed to the Secor funeral home at Willard pending funeral arrangements.

In an accident at Steuben, five miles north of Willard early Christmas morning, William E. Erwin of Shelby suffered head injuries when his automobile skidded on the icy pavement and struck a tree. Erwin, who was alone in the car, was removed to the Willard hospital.

Gustave A. Young, 56, formerly of Loudonville, was fatally injured in Akron Saturday night when he was struck while crossing a street. Police reported that Young was hit by one car and then run over by another machine.

Kin of Mansfielder Killed.

Born in Loudonville Aug. 15, 1882, Young had lived in Waynesburg near Canton. He is survived by three children, Mrs. Richard Churchill and Paul, both of Waynesburg, and Jack of Los Angeles, Calif., and two grandchildren, three brothers, C. J. Young of Mansfield, Frank of Pensacola, Fla., and Harry of Loudonville, and two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Sharp and Mrs. Ada Herlocker, both of Loudonville.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Thursday at the Swank funeral home in Loudonville with Rev. G. W. Krause officiating. Burial will be in the Loudonville cemetery.

In accidents in other parts of the state Oca Stivers, 50, and his three sons were killed last night when a passenger train struck their automobile near West Manchester in a snowstorm. The sons were Noah, 28, Oscar, 15, and Cletus, 12.

The father's body was hurled from the wreckage, but those of his sons were found in the demolished automobile after the train halted about a half mile from the crossing.

Hobart Williams, 41, of Toledo, died at Findlay of injuries received Christmas day in an accident in which his wife, Ora, 43, was killed. Coroner H. O. Crosby, who announced an inquest for Thursday, said the couple was surveying their damaged automobile, which had collided with a Greyhound bus, when a car driven by Charles Siebert, 22, of Huntington, W. Va., struck them. Siebert blamed an icy pavement.

2 Brothers Lose Lives.

Jesse Duncan, 21, succumbed at Dayton to injuries sustained in a crash that killed his 18-year-old brother, Delbert, Saturday. The brothers were returning with relatives from a family gathering at Xenia.

Mrs. Esther Ridinger, 35, was killed at Miamisburg, near Dayton, when her husband's automobile skidded into another machine.

William H. Seiser, 76, died of injuries received when he was felled by a hitskit automobile. Other pedestrians killed in traffic included Anthony Pondello, 60, of Youngstown, James Barker, 78, of Hamilton and Frank McQuillan, 57, Akron.

Fatalities on Christmas day included Otis C. Williams, 48, of Tiffin, killed by an automobile as he handed a present to his wife, who was seated in their car. Mrs. Minnie Weisbeck, 40, fell to her death from a moving automobile at Cincinnati. A crash took the life of John Tasseffi, 50, of Cleveland.

Pedestrians who were victims of Christmas day accidents were Roy McCart, 9, of Cincinnati; Ralph P. Currier, 45, of Dayton, and Carl De Paulino, 55, of Cleveland.

Holiday Violent Death Toll Placed at 508

(By Associated Press)

Violent deaths marred the nation's three-day Christmas celebration with a total cost of more than 500 lives. A national survey placed the figure today at 508.

The toll was approximately the same as that for last year, but in 1937 Christmas fell on Saturday and there was only a two-day observance.

The automobile was the biggest single death factor, accounting for at least 396 fatalities. Twenty-two persons were killed by fire; 19 died by suicide; 12 in railroad crossing crashes, and six were drowned. Homicides and miscellaneous accidents were responsible for the remainder.

FIRE PERILS 20

Tenement Dwellers Menaced By Blaze; Woman Dies.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—More than 20 men, women and children leaned from windows of a blazing tenement house screaming for help early today. Firemen raised ladders and rescued them.

Mrs. Norah McNnerny, 58, was found dead on the top floor of the five-story building after the fire was extinguished. Police believed the blaze was incendiary.

lines to evacuate so the troops could convert them into forts.

In the southern sector, the insurgents claimed a 25-mile advance across the Grosa mountains. Marcelona admitted that the insurgents had taken Almatret, 25 miles south of Lerida, because of "Italian attacks."

(The Paris newspaper Le Journal said the insurgents took Borjas Blancas and continued their advance eastward, but an official nationalist communique did not confirm this.—Ed.)

The fact that official insurgent communiques failed to bear out the Paris newspaper report that Borjas Blancas had fallen lent strength to government reports that nationalist attacks along the Segre river, at Granena, Fraga and Cogull, had been repulsed.

PICKS DIRECTOR OF 'NYA TOWN'

Ohio Administrator Maps Opening of Carroll County Camp.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—S. Burns Weston, Ohio National Youth administration director, announced today that Ralph L. Perkins would become director of a second "NYA Town" for 300 youths to be established near Leesville dam, Carroll county, in the Muskingum conservancy district.

Perkins is a director of the present "NYA Town" occupied by about 150 youths in Schoenbrunn state park near New Philadelphia. Occupants of the center selected its name.

Weston said the communities were designed as a part of the NYA's program to give youths between 18 and 35 an opportunity to discover their occupational aptitudes through actual experience.

PUTS HAND IN LION'S MOUTH

And Jungle King Clamps Down—Spieler Loses Arm.

OCEAN PARK, Cal. — (U.P.) — Sylvester Kirby, 35, who stuck his right fist inside a lion's mouth to prove his courage, was minus that hand and arm today. The lion clamped its jaws tight.

Kirby, a spieler on the Ocean Park amusement park, told other employes the lions "won't bite me."

He stuck his first through the bars and into a 3-year-old male lion's mouth. The lion clamped its jaws on his wrist and clawed his arm so badly it had to be amputated above the elbow. Kirby was in critical condition in a hospital.

WROTE LINCOLN STORY

LAWRENCE, N. Y. — (AP) — James Loucheim, 94, who as a youthful reporter for the "Cincinnati Press" covered the assassination of President Lincoln, died yesterday.

Their Christmas Wasn't Merry

It was a sad Christmas for Geraldine (left) and Rose Rousseau, whose father, William, was shot and killed when he tried to take a Yule tree from the nursery of 84-year-old William Case at Grafton, O. Their mother was wounded. Rousseau, an unemployed trucker, too poor to buy a tree, had thought to provide a merry Christmas for the girls, aged 11 and 8 respectively.

tons of salt on Mansfield streets over the holiday week-end, D. D. Orewiler, superintendent of streets said today.

Twenty-five men and eight cinder trucks were busy all night clearing state highways in the county, and 12 men operating four plows cleared county routes, maintenance officials said.

All roads in the county were open today although many of them were still slippery and dangerous for travel.

40 Below in Montana.

From Canada to Texas and the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic seaboard, temperatures fell to record low marks for the winter, with readings of 40 degrees below zero reported in Montana and North Dakota.

Snow swirled across the midwest, blocking highways in Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa and other midwestern states. While moderating temperatures were forecast for Wednesday in some sections, the cold was expected to keep its grip on most of the northcentral region during the rest of the week.

The mercury dropped to 11 above zero in Amarillo, Texas, and zero at Kansas City. It was seven below at Minneapolis. Nearly a dozen states in the west and northwest had temperatures of zero or below. Freezing weather was expected to reach into Florida by tonight.

Cold Ends Dust Storms.

Dust storms yesterday plagued the Dust bowl area of Kansas, but the dark clouds that marked the "duster" cleared as the temperature fell to near zero.

Ohio temperatures tumbled, with Toledo reporting a seasonal low of 13 at 9 a. m. observers at Columbus forecast statewide readings of between zero and the 10 above mark by tomorrow morning.

At Cincinnati, where the thermometer dropped from 38 to 17 overnight, a 34-mile wind shattered numerous windows and set off burglar alarms. Heavy wet snow fell in the northern sector of the state late yesterday. Other sections reported scattered light flurries today.

Planes Delayed.

At Cleveland Municipal airport, where the wind reached gale proportions of 55 miles an hour last night, planes were operating again after waiting for snow and wind to subside. Ten persons received treatment at hospitals in Greater Cleveland for injuries suffered in falls on icy sidewalks.

A windstorm in western Pennsylvania and southwest Virginia unroofed buildings, uprooted trees, and disrupted power and communication lines. Part of a hospital roof at Latrobe, Pa., was torn away and 75 patients were left in darkness for more than a half hour when power lines snapped. Airlines cancelled passenger flights across the Alleghenies.

Several inches of snow fell in western North Carolina and southwest Virginia. A heavy rain hit New York city while upstate New York received a heavy fall of snow.

The temperature fell 30 degrees overnight in Chicago. A low of 13 above zero was forecast for the city. Polar blasts sent the mercury to 10 above zero in some suburbs.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup Than You Can Buy

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you about four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough remedy. Instantly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

A touch of Resinol soothes the "bitey" soreness as its active medication aids nature's healing. Resinol Soap is ideal for sore, tender skin.

SOAP AND OINTMENT

A DOCTOR WILL TELL YOU

By John C. Davis, Druggist.

Frequently it is a symptom so vague, and to the layman not indicative of trouble ahead, that eventually lays you low.

If the statement that good health is worth more than anything else in the world were published at every street corner, there would be those who would continue to neglect their health.

Do not be one of them. Do not ignore the dimmest of physical red lights. Do not even wait for a danger signal. Ask a doctor to tell you whether or not you contain hidden danger signals.

If you need medicine he will want a competent druggist to compound it for you. Be sure and choose a competent one.

SIZES OF LOTS AFFECT VALUES OF SUBDIVISION

Federal Housing Board Seeks to Establish Reasonable Minimum Requirements.

The attractiveness and economic stability of a residential neighborhood depends to a considerable degree on the manner in which the land is subdivided into lots. The question of lot sizes within such a development has been the subject of considerable debate for many years. The Land Planning Section of the Federal Housing Administration, in an effort to establish reasonable minimum requirements as to residential lot dimensions, has not only sifted out the best thought in such matters but also has undertaken a number of field studies in widely separated sections of the country.

According to Mr. Seward H. Mott, Chief of the Land Planning Section, there are many factors that should be analyzed before the size of the lots is determined. Among the more important of these factors, he has listed the following:

1. Local customs and regulations. Oftentimes either zoning ordinances or platting regulations govern minimum lot sizes.

2. Types and sizes of dwellings. It is obvious that the kind and size of structures contemplated must be considered.

3. Light, air, and open-space requirements for health, privacy, and general well-being. Local regulations as the front-, side-, and rear-yard set-backs are common. However, it has become almost universal practice to establish "building-line set-backs" on the street front of lots, especially where lots are of limited size, and customary to establish them for the rear and side lines in the case of detached-house districts.

4. Topography and soil. Each lot should constitute a good site for a house with convenient means of access, regardless of steep cross slopes, streams, rock outcrops, etc.

5. Raw (unimproved) land costs. Only where undeveloped land costs are exceptionally high should this factor be given much weight.

6. Front-foot utility and street-improvement costs. While this factor is important, it should not be used to restrict the width of lots to the detriment of light and air. Good subdivision practice provides ample open space between dwellings in contrast to former practices of crowding as many buildings as closely together as possible.

7. Community sewage disposal facilities. If individual septic tanks are employed, larger lots are required to adequately handle the effluent.

8. Land use in the immediate environs. Where adjacent properties are used for any purpose other than residential, their influence—either beneficial or detrimental—may be reflected in smaller or larger lot sizes.

9. Accessibility of public recreational facilities. Recreational opportunities in the form of public parks and playgrounds reduce the need for broad side and rear yards. Open space in one form or the other is one of the best guarantees of stable property values.

SHOWER BATH SPACE SAVER

A second bath in a small house is often a desirable improvement and one that offers a knotty problem to the modernization-minded home owner.

The solution sometimes lies in eliminating the tub, installing a shower stall in its place. A complete bathroom, with shower in place of tub, can be contained in a space as small as five feet square, with favorable window arrangement.

The Federal Housing Administration through its Property Improvement Credit Plan makes possible such additions to a home. The money for the improvement may be obtained from lending institutions qualified by the FHA.

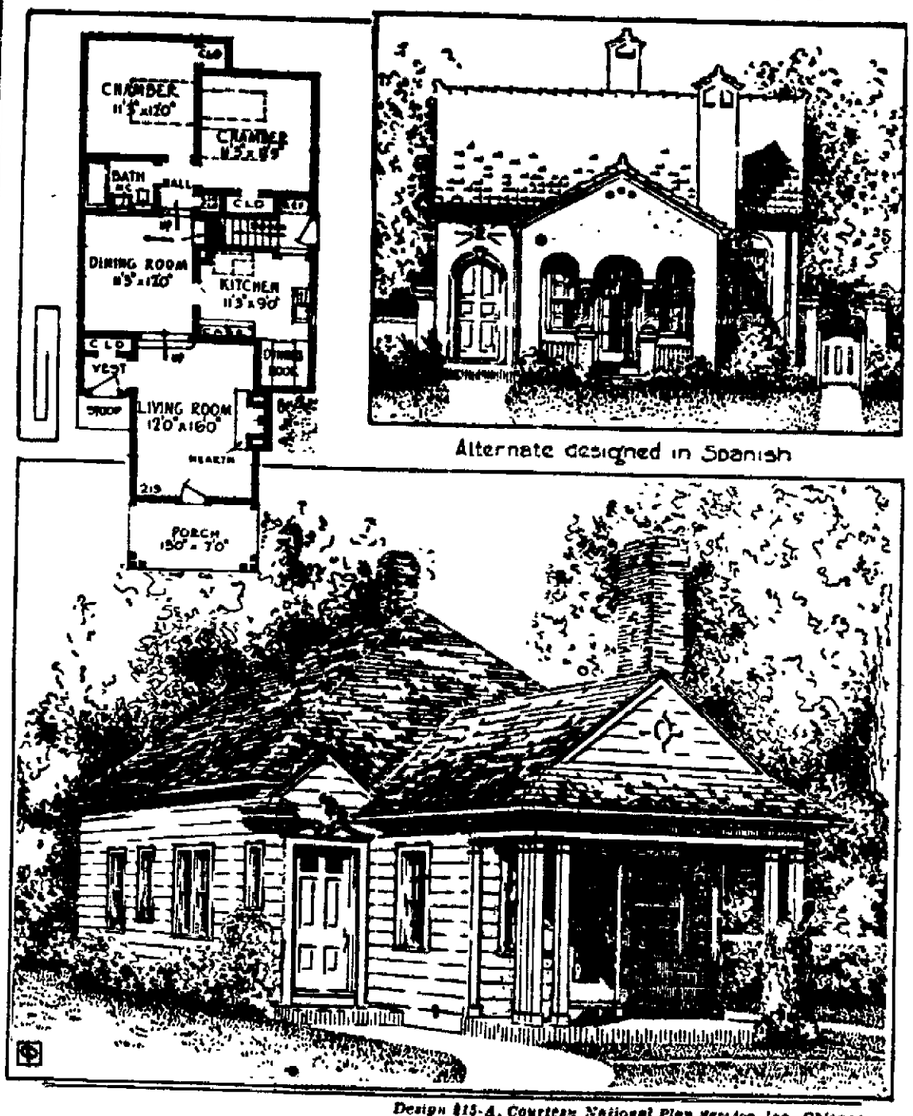
Solves Home on Narrow Lot Problem



Alternate designed in Spanish

Design 815-A, Courtesy National Plan Service, Inc., Chicago

American cottage planned for narrow lot in colonial design, or in Spanish type, as shown in plan B, contains five rooms and bath.

(By Central Press)

If you have the problem of owning a narrow lot, this attractive five-room frame house may interest you.

Designed along colonial lines, it may also be built in the Spanish type of architecture, as shown above, using the same floor plans.

You will note the side entrance, leaving the front porch undisturbed. The entrance vestibule has a closet for wraps. Living room, with fireplace, dining room, kitchen with dining nook, two bedrooms on the back, and bath finish the floor plans. Space for garage is provided in rear basement.

Size of the main building is 24 by 48 feet; size over all, 26 feet six inches by 56 feet six inches. The house proper contains 20,550 cubic feet; the porch, 630; total, 21,180 cubic feet.

FLOORING PROBLEMS SOLVED BY USE OF VARIOUS MATERIALS

In building a new house, or modernizing an old one, flooring furnishes a problem for the home owner. There are several things that must be considered: First, should flooring be single or double? Second, what kind of wood should be used for the finish floor? And, third, how should they be finished?

The fact that double floors have a threefold purpose should be borne in mind when considering the first question. Subflooring put on diagonally tends to prevent warping and the opening of joints in the finished floors. Building paper should be laid and properly lapped on all subfloors before the finished floors are applied. This tends to add sound-proofing and check dust penetration. If the owner can afford double floors, they should be used throughout the house. If it is necessary to guard the budget with extra care, subflooring may be omitted on the second floor. If the house has a cellar, considerable dust will penetrate to the first floor if only a single floor is installed. If there is no cellar, the subfloor with paper covering is needed for insulation.

When a floor is to be covered with linoleum, carpet, or some other material, a flat-grained soft wood may be used.

SUBDUED COLOR FOR KITCHENS

Restraint in Coloring Found to Be More Effective by Paint Researchers.

Restraint in the use of color is a thought to be regarded when decorating the kitchen.

Spectacular coloring which may look bright and gay for a few weeks is over-stimulating and it eventually palls, according to Harry Swenson, designer of modern all-gas kitchens. The areas available for color treatment such as walls, counter tops and flooring are so large that vibrant shades create an effect that is garish and theatrical.

New hues with a dusty tinge are prescribed for the color scheme. So strike off the list aggressive bright reds, and strident blues, substituting brick reds, soft grey-blues, olive-greens and mustard yellows!

These more mellow subtle shades, as though seen through a haze, provide the proper eye relief to the starkness and hard "closed pore" surfaces of steel, enamel, glass, porcelain and even the slick fabrics in modern equipment and accessories. In choosing the new gas range and refrigerator, white enamel with black bases and black or chromium handles is best, committing you to no fixed color scheme.

Smooth simplicity serves a definite and utilitarian purpose in the kitchen. Swenson points out that it is a mistake to try to relieve it by over-decoration. "A kitchen is never empty," he says—"It should be attractive in repose without assuming the appearance of clutter and confusion when the homemaker is active and puts the room in motion."

Adequate Closet Space Necessary For Each Room

A prospective home purchaser will do well to examine carefully the closet space in any house that he may have under consideration.

The ideal arrangement provides each room with an adequate, well-designed closet and also supplies closets for linen and basement storage space for trunks and larger objects such as unused furniture.

In addition, the kitchen and pantry should have a closet and shelf space. In existing homes closets may be created from waste space or by decreasing room sizes.

Funds for interior changes, such as those necessary for building closets, may be obtained from institutions qualified by the Federal Housing Administration under its Property Improvement Credit Plan.

CINDER BLOCK IS UNIFORM
Naturally cinder concrete units cast in uniform molds under pressure and then properly cured will fulfill this requirement better than units made from materials which may be warped during the burning process. The uniform rough texture gives a good mechanical bond, and equally important is the uniform absorptive character of the surface, so the plaster will set evenly and prevent the checking which would otherwise result.

ROMANCE, INC. + + +

CHAPTER 32

The Sunday edition of The Houston Chronicle carried a full-page presentation of Sara Sue Davis, Inc., Counsel in Romance.

"Look! Look at that, mamma!" Nathan Epstein barked at his wife over the breakfast table. "This voman she gets -60 column inches free publicity. She never does advertise. Me, I advertise my clothing store six thousand dollar a year. Do I get 160 inches free? Do I get even six inches free? Look at this!"

Mrs. Epstein, however, was a sensible woman. And a calm one, with a touch of humor.

"Look at the picture, too, Nathan. Look at her. Then look at you. Maybe better you develop slim svelte figure, and pose yourself in bathinging suit, to, hah?" She chuckled at her husband.

The Chronicle art department had developed acute enthusiasm when the photographer put a 14-inch print of Sara Sue before them. They had, therefore, suggested a page built around that bathing suit pose, which showed not only a model figure, but a million-dollar smile. The editor in turn had found the enthusiasm contagious, and so the layout showed Sara Sue's lovely form extending the full length of the page. Inset photos showed her cottage, her sign, and three more views of Sara Sue herself. The headline read:

"CAMPUS LOVE GUIDED BY LOVELY EXPERT"

Mr. Summers, the feature writer, had outdone himself. He had written an excellent story, and had shown a proofsheet of it to the paper's editorial writer. That serious minded gentleman had forthwith written a Sunday editorial on the "Importance of Love at College Age," pointing out that a young Houston girl had set a precedent which the wise but stodgy college professors everywhere might well follow.

"The extra-curricular course which Mrs. Davis offers a select few at Rice Institute," the editor wrote, "is worth more in guiding youth toward life happiness than all the mathematics, all the biology, and all the philosophy combined. It is to be hoped that universities everywhere will in the near future realize that romance is not something to be scoffed at, but is a genuine influence in molding the carers of—" He had a great deal to say, in two columns by 11 inches of space, his lead editorial for the day.

Before noon a swarm of Houstonians had started driving out South Main boulevard to se the romance cottage. Just to see it. And a stream of pests began knocking at Sara Sue's door wanting autographs. A lot of intrusive but well-meaning folk just wanted to meet her, talk with her, see if she really was as pretty as she appeared in the newspapers.

All of these were received by a beaming negress, Cleopatra Jones, and her equally happy husband, Calculus.

"No'om, no suh, Miss Sara Sue's at church. She be sorry she miss you."

"She at church, ma'am. Yes'm, she even prettier'n that picture make her out. She sign yo' book, I betcha."

"No'm, she ain't here, ma'am. She at church with Mr. Bob Towne, the end man."

It was just as well that Bob had taken Sarah Sue to church. He had slipped in ahead of T. J. Sanders on that detail, and had by luck enabled Sara Sue to escape the press of early callers. They went to the Baptist church, and Thornton Holgate saw them there.

"Great to see you up and about, Dr. Holgate," Bob assured him. "But Sara Sue's stealing your thunder today?"

"I beg pardon?"

Bob laughed. "She's in bigger headlines than you were. See the paper?"

"Oh, yes, yes, to be sure. Such untoward publicity is most lamentable, isn't it?"

"I don't know. What harm can it do? Might as well advertise her business."

Sara Sue expresesd herself there. "I think you are quite right, Thornton. The paper wrote me up out of all proportions to my importance. I'm afraid Bob—"

"No, no, madam—Ah, Sara Sue. Not that. I meant—well, the bathing pose and all, would seem —" Dr. Holgate was floundering.

"I get it, Doctor," said Bob. "Sara Sue's too sweet to be ballyhooed in that particular way."

"Quite! Yes, indeed!"

"You boys hush," Sara Sue ordered. But she blushed pink as a peach, something she didn't often do any more. 'Come on in the church, the organ's starting."

All told, the day was busy for Sara Sue. And distracting.

She was pleased with the generous attention given her by the paper, but embarrassed by it, too. She was no stage or movie star; she wasn't used to publicity's spotlight.

Therefore, she welcomed the rain that put a halt to most of her callers toward sundown—she was glad that Thornton Holgate came quietly over, under his green umbrella, to visit for a half hour at 9:30 p. m. Mother Davis retired, leaving them alone.

"It is time for coffee and cakes," the girl declared, serving them. "How is your love affair progressing? Seen Peaches any more?"

"I—ah—no."

"No? Why? Don't let your modesty interfere now, Thorny! You made a grand impression at Galveston. You are the campus hero. Follow it up."

"Um, the fact is—"

The fact was that Dr. Holgate had thought of the matter a great deal. He had done almost nothing else but think about it, since he regained consciousness in John Sealy hospital. In that interim he had managed to minimize Peaches' shortcomings, and to idealize her again. But he hadn't dared seek too much contact with her in person, lest his ideal vanish!

"—the fact is, I am unworthy of her. That is—well, she likes to drink. And to smoke. And even gamble a bit, I fear. And I—I have been reared with conflicting moral standards. If I could convince her—"

Sara Sue understood. Or thought she did.

"Yes, Thorny," she nodded, speaking gently, sympathetically. "I realized that you two hadn't a great deal in common. But isn't there some law somewhere, in science, saying that opposites attract each other? I think there is. You were attracted to her. Maybe she is now attracted to you. I think you should assume so, since you want her so much." This last was spoken wistfully.

"Perhaps," he agreed, without much enthusiasm.

"Thorny, you must be prepared to do some changing, however. Even though you are attracted to each other, you must remember that only one standard can exist between you. Peaches undoubtedly is a little bit wild. But you have been a little bit tame, too. Remember I told you that you used to act like a sissy?"

He nodded, gazing at the blaze in her fireplace. Nightmare, the dog, was sleeping nearby.

"Well, then, don't you think you should give as well as take? Don't ever be mean, of course. But don't be too strict. Be—broad. Broad-minded. Try to be gay and happy with her. And not too scholarly. She would appreciate that."

It seemed like sound doctrine. The morning paper had emphasized that Mrs. Davis operated no gigolo service, no "date bureau" save in a remote, respectable sense, but that she sought to give individual guidance to young men and women about their heart affairs. Thornton was impressed again with her general acumen. Verily, Mrs. Davis was a remarkable woman, as the paper had said.

"You have developed your personality wonderfully since you first came here," she went on. "You look smart, fashionable, distinguished. And still young. You don't stare owl-eyed at people any more. You learn fast, Thorny. You were already a brilliant conversationalist, when you were at ease. All you need now is to develop a little more gaiety. Laugh and sing a lot. Make small talk. Be sociable. See!"

"Yes. Thank you. Thank you, truly, Sara Sue!"

He left her cottage much happier for the call. Always a visit with her seemed to stimulate him, he realized. He respected her not for her personal charm, but for her keen mentality as well. He would take her counsel, as originally agreed.

If Peaches Pomeroy was of a gayer, faster social world, then he would try to adapt himself to that. He wasn't sure exactly how—he would give it some detailed thought—but he would do it. He would impress Peaches.

He had been an old stick-in-the-mud, as Sara Sue told him, but as soon as opportunity with Peaches presented again, he would consciously go a little bit wild. A little bit wild.

Or maybe a considerable bit!

Foe of Walsh-Healey Act Sees Changes Unlikely.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Rep. Michener, R., Mich., leader of the opposition to amendments to the Walsh-Healey act in the house last session, said that they have little chance of passing next year unless President Roosevelt backs them.

Michener made the statement shortly after John L. Lewis, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, announced the CIO's legislative program for the coming session, with the Walsh-Healey amendments in No. 1 position.

The Walsh-Healy act compels persons obtaining government contracts in excess of $10,000 to pay wages recommended for the industry by the secretary of labor, and to observe the 40-hour week in producing the goods under contract. The amendments would extend these provisions to contractors down to the $2,000 bracket, deny contracts to employers violating the Wagner labor relations act, and blacklist violators for three years with a ban against their obtaining government contracts.

As for the coming session of congress, wouldn't it be better to attend to current business and postpone the 1940 campaign for at least a few months?

Hopkins Joins the Official Family.

WHILE there is some talk of senate opposition to confirmation of the appointment of Harry L. Hopkins to the post of secretary of commerce, it seems likely the appointment will finally be confirmed.

Cabinet members are regarded as so intimately associated with presidential policies that effort is seldom made by the senate to hamper the chief executive in selection of his official family.

Appointment of Hopkins to this particular cabinet position stands with that of Hugo Black in the matter of public disfavor, but is typical of the methods of President Roosevelt in rewarding favorites and attempting to purge all who disagree with him.

As WPA administrator Mr. Hopkins showed considerable ability as a free-handed spender, without regard to where the money was coming from. Earlier experience as a welfare worker was not such as to inspire confidence in his business ability.

It is particularly important at this time that the office of secretary of commerce should be filled by a man who understands the problems of business and industry and who would be able to work in harmony with these essential factors in national affairs.

Mr. Hopkins' record thus far has indicated that he not only does not understand business, but that he is actually opposed to the principle of free business enterprise.

What can be depended upon, however, is that whatever Mr. Hopkins may do as secretary of commerce will merely reflect the views and wishes of President Roosevelt in matters having to do with the attitude of government toward business and industry.

Scholastic Ability to Be Rewarded.

OPENING educational opportunities to all children, as is being attempted in this country, is a fine thing, yet there are problems involved in mass education that are far from being satisfactorily solved.

In all generations of school children there are some who surpass others in their ability to learn, and others who are unable to keep up with even the relatively low requirements of a scholastic schedule.

This is notoriously taken into account when special privileges in attendance and scholarship are accorded some mentally deficient students who are needed for athletic activities.

Need for broadening opportunities for students of unusual promise along scholastic lines is becoming increasingly recognized by some colleges, organizations and individuals.

The Worcester Polytechnic Institute, for instance, announces it will make available 45 scholarships, having a total value of $20,000, to members of the 1939 entering class whose character, scholastic records, activities and leadership qualities indicate high promise for success in engineering.

The Elks National Foundation, a philanthropic division of that order, will award $1,500 in prizes to the nation's four "most valuable students," judged on the basis of character, scholarship, courage, patriotism or service. The purpose of these prizes is to pave the way toward further education.

In a number of cities organizations or individuals have established student loan funds intended to assist ambitious students who might not otherwise be able to attend college and who may reasonably be expected to benefit by one or more years of college work.

A phase of education which seems worthy of further development has to do with better adaptation to the capacity and talents of individual children, rather than attempting to mold child minds into a common pattern.

Purposes of Naval Exhibit.

THERE are to be naval maneuvers in the Atlantic this winter. More than 100 fighting ships of various kinds, from battleships down, along with 600 warplanes, will play hide and seek in the Caribbean sea and parade at some strategic points along the South American coast.

This is said to be for a triple purpose. It will give the fleet useful exercise, show European observers what we have in the form of sea power, and serve a similar end for Latin-American observers who may have any doubts on that score.

As our navy stands, not to mention the warships now building, it is a rather respectable fighting force, and should serve to corroborate some of the things our representatives have been saying in Peru, about preserving America intact for Americans.

Justice Under Law.

FROM Edwin S Smith, member of the National Labor Relations Board, comes the rather amazing comment that the regular courts of the country "may not be temperamentally inclined to give a sympathetic understanding to labor's problems and may be overprecise and too insistent on concrete proof."

Since when has temperamental inclination been a desirable judicial trait? And since when has definite insistence on evidential data been unnecessary and unwarranted in connection with the processes of litigation?

America will have reached a sorry state of affairs when its institutions of justice cease to be characterized by even-handed adjudication in accordance with the disinterested dictates of factual proof.

Forecast from Paris is that styles are to be even more feminine—if you know what that means.

It now appears that the originator of five-suit bridge was born at least a hundred years too soon.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WEIRD as an Arabian Nights tale is a story of the "Lost Tribe" of Apache Indians, victims of America's campaign to make the great west safe for democracy.

Several seemingly authoritative sources have attested that the tribe exists in a state of starving savagery 200 miles south of Douglas, Ariz. Recently a Norwegian ethnologist, Helge Ingstad, presented such incontrovertible testimony about the fugitive band that the Indian bureau is seriously considering steps which could be taken to restore them in New Mexico with other members of the tribe.

Their history goes back to 1865 when Geronimo led them across the Mexican border to escape U. S. soldiers. As they fled, so one story with somewhat less authenticity, relates they killed Charles McCormis, New Mexican territorial judge, and his wife, and kidnaped their six-year-old son.

For a score of years America's incomparable native cavalry wandered along the unpoliced border area south of the Rio Grande. Then Geronimo surrendered and most of the tribe was settled on the Mescalero reservation in New Mexico. One small band refused to surrender, hiding instead in the Sierra Madras mountains, from where present tales of them come, and where Ingstad reported seeing a group of five. Four were women, one a man, the latter bedraggled and obviously browbeaten and abject. The leader of the five was a woman.

Too Suspicious to Talk.

THEY were suspicious, and in spite of Apache guides Ingstad had taken from the New Mexican reservation, little was learned directly from them.

Instad was interested in them primarily from an ethnological standpoint. During a period when he was Danish governor of Greenland and Spitsbergen, he had concluded that a certain tribe of Arctic natives called caribou eaters were akin to the Apaches. The latter he believed had come south centuries earlier.

Ingstad learned that an Apache woman once told a white resident that a red-headed white man with "startlingly blue eyes" roamed with the "Lost Tribe" until he was slain in 1922 at about the age of 60. Cowboys also had seen a white man among them. Could it be possible, Ingstad asked in a letter to Commissioner John Collier of the bureau, that this man was the McCormis boy kidnaped 57 years earlier?

Only Four Left?

INGSTAD'S activities stirred interest of other persons. Grenville Goodwin of Santa Fe, a student of Indian life, wrote that there was a "permanent open season" on the tribesmen, with Mexican and American ranchers ready to "shoot them on sight" because of their thefts of cattle and horses. Goodwin said they had no other way of living.

Various sources estimated approximately 50 tribesmen still live, although this is flatly contradicted by Dr. I. J. Bush of El Paso, who states in a book now being published that only four are left.

"I spent two nights and a day with them in 1906," Bush wrote Collier, "and I ought to know."

Instad said women had gained supremacy among the group and that the men were reduced to wretchedness even beyond the rest of the tribe.

EXCHANGE WEEK AT "SANTA CLAUS HEADQUARTERS"

Defense Differences To Be Aired

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Presidential politics promises to complicate the national defense situation amazingly in the approaching session of congress. Actually the fight will be led on the one side by Louis A. Johnson, assistant secretary of war, and on the other by Senator Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri.

Johnson will fight for prodigious appropriations and authorizations. For example, he wants 10,000 airplanes—for the army alone. Of these he figures about 3,500 will be necessary for training, so that the 10,000 would yield a net of only 6,500 fighting planes.

Clark will lead the fight against any such heavy appropriations. He will demand: Why are they necessary? What good will they be after a couple of years when they are obsolete? And so on down the line.

The interesting part of the situation is that neither of the two men who will thus be limelighted, before January is over, as the champions of the two sides are President Roosevelt's own choice for his successor in the White House, and yet both will use this fight as the stepping stone toward that big job.

WITH Harry L. Hopkins, who is Roosevelt's own choice for his successor, made secretary of commerce, shrewd observers figure that no matter how important he may make that job it will be completely blanketed, as far as publicity is concerned, by national defense. In fact, some point out, the better job Hopkins does as secretary of commerce, the less publicity he will get.

It isn't a page-one story to do something to smooth the path of business, or to lighten its load. But it's a first-page story to scare the country about the possibility of the dictators coming over here, from Johnson's angle, and it's also a first-page story to attack the munitions makers as inspiring all the ballyhoo for national defense, heavier taxes, and endangering getting this country into war—especially the latter. And that will be Clark's bid for the spotlight.

On the whole, congress is willing to go very far with the president on national defense. It doesn't think very much of the contention that this would provide employment, and therefore, lighten the relief burden. In fact congress will be told that the chief limit on the amount of money that can be spent for national defense is the scarcity of skilled mechanics. Unemployed, more or less shiftless individuals can be of little use in an armament program. And actually the shipyards, the gun plants, and the airplane factories are all reporting that they are having the greatest difficulty in getting the men they need right now.

As a matter of fact, it is common knowledge in Washington that the navy would like to put a great many more men to work immediately in its gun factory, but simply cannot get properly trained men.

But congress on the whole is for more national defense. More sections of the country are aroused than ever before. Congressmen will be found voting for big defense appropriations who a few years ago were regarded as staunch little navy men, if not pacifists. The reason is simple. Their districts have changed, and they are voting in accord with the new sentiment.

HITLER has changed a lot of minds in this country toward stronger national defense. The change has been accelerated since Munich. Mussolini has been very potent in the same direction.

The logic of the administration, which will find plenty of backing, is the same that led Woodrow Wilson to the preparedness drive in 1916, when preparedness parades were held in most of the big cities. The idea then and now is that if this country is sufficiently strong, foreign nations will hesitate to embroil themselves in trouble with Uncle Sam.

Actor Advises Mansfield Boy Not To Run Away From Home

SOME Mansfield boy is planning to "run away from home" next summer, to go out to Hollywood and see Wayne Morris, popular stage and screen actor, who has won the admiration of this Mansfield youngster.

Not long ago this Mansfield boy wrote Wayne a letter in which he told of his intentions but did not give his name, saying he would do this in a later letter when his plans were more complete.

"If I come to Hollywood to see you I will run away with some other kids," says the boy in his letter. "My mother doesn't know I wrote you this letter. Maybe you don't like kids, but I like you," the letter concludes.

And so Wayne Morris, out in Hollywood, took time to reply to this boy's letter, and because he didn't know the boy's name or address he sent his letter to The News-Journal.

The letter of the actor to the Mansfield boy will be of interest not only to this particular lad out to many other children and grown-ups as well. Here it is:

DEAR KID:

Of course I like kids, and it was awfully swell of you to write me, but I don't think you ought to run away from home just to come and see me.

When I was a kid I started to run away from home too, but I was lucky—I bumped into my father just as I was rounding the corner. He brought me back home.

Dad wasn't angry. He didn't even punish me, because he told me that when he was a kid, he too had thought about running away from home. I guess we all do, but when he explained to me how unhappy Mom would be, and how badly he'd feel about it, I was very glad that we had met on the street corner.

Now kid, you don't want to hurt your Mom and Pop, and running away isn't as much fun as you think it might be. If you promise me that you'll stay in Mansfield, Ohio, I promise you this—

On my next trip east, if I get anywhere near Ohio I will make it a point to come and see you if you'll let me know where you are. Then we can get together that way, and no one will be hurt.

Merry Christmas,
WAYNE.

The Racketeers.

The Coster-Musica scandal was another great betrayal of public trust that can be traced back to the promoter-speculator type that was thrown up in the demoralization of the boom years. Untrustworthy men emerged in high political places in the Harding regime. They emerged in high business places in the same post-war period.

Such men as Fall and Insull and Richard Whitney and Musica correspond to the racketeers in every walk of life—in the professions, organized labor, business, finance or what-not. Left-wingers say they are the products of the capitalist system. But so are the 99 per cent who go straight. Human nature has not reached perfection. Occasionally it succumbs to temptation—and it does this without regard to race, color or previous condition of servitude!—Kansas City Star.

Supervised Security or Independent Uncertainty—Which Do You Prefer?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SECURITY, in some safe routine . . . each thought, act and attitude outlined and organized by the Machine—

Or Uncertainty, as Master of your own fate, with all the risk and challenge, hardship or adventure such Uncertainty implies—

WHICH FUTURE DO YOU PREFER?

Millions are asking that question as they enter 1939. Easy enough to understand and sympathize with such anxiety when those who ask are old or ill or burdened with heavy family obligations. But one feels an uneasy wonder when the query comes from American Youth. Consider, for example, the following writer—

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"IS THERE SUCH A THING AS SECURITY FOR MY GENERATION?

"Consider our plight. From birth we've lived in the shadow of two catastrophes—the WORLD WAR and the FIRST DEPRESSION. In spite of that, we made out pretty well...managed to get fair education and find good jobs. But then the RECESSION came along. Our scant savings, our jobs and our future prospects were swept away overnight. Now things look better. We're working again—BUT MOST OF US ARE TERRIFIED. We're not moochers...we want to work. But we're getting nowhere. Elsie, we ask the world—WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?"

G. B.—age 29,
Denver, Col.

That's a serious letter. And no one should try to answer it who hasn't personally experienced all the perils and penalties of Uncertainty. It just happens that I have experienced them—plenty! And can still feel them breathing hard on my neck. Yet my answer, today, is exactly what it would have been thirty years ago—

"WHERE DO YOU GO FROM HERE?"

"I DON'T KNOW...AND I DON'T WANT TO KNOW... ...AND NEITHER SHOULD YOU: IF YOU HAVE A PARTICLE OF PRIDE OR SPUNK.

For those old boys who founded this nation had a much bigger vision than Security. They had known Security...all the sad and shameful security of shackled men. They were sick of ruts and routines and the stupid, deadening domination that went with them. AND NOW THEY LONGED FOR A NEW DEAL...A FRESH TRAIL. They wanted Liberty...the right to govern their own consciences and carve out their own future...and they were eager to accept the risk and danger, the uncertainty and hardship which went with Freedom.

BETTER, they cried, ONE HOUR OF GLORIOUS GAMBLING WITH ONE'S OWN FATE THAN AN ETERNITY OF SECURITY AS A "STALLED OX"!

So started our American plan ...and our American pride! So came our American power! All of which listens lovely in print... but believe me, youngsters, it called for strenuous hustling... courageous humiliation....and precious little fun or frills. Didn't we want fun and frills...didn't we hate pinching and patching... as much as you do today? Don't be an idiot! Of course we did! BUT OUR SKIES GLOWED WITH A GREATER VISION... OUR HEARTS BEAT TO A GREATER RHYTHM THAN KAMPUS KLOTHES OR JITTERBUG SWING.

We wanted to build America... we wanted to prove to the world that we were Americans...so we took what it cost on the chin!

And I still think it was—and is—a swell idea!

Security? Don't let them sell it to you, kid—it's a phoney! There's something in you that can see farther, reach higher than that! SOMETHING THAT SET ITS FOOT ON A "STERN AND ROCKY SHORE".....AND STARVED AT VALLEY FORGE ...AND FOLLOWED THE SKULL-LINED TRAIL IN A COVERED WAGON—

Something they call "AMERICAN"—

That's a bargain at any price!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Oh, so you're writing a musical comedy? You've got a good book and the music is simply swell. You've got comedy and gags that'll lay 'em in the aisles. I believe you. If other people can do it, why can't you?

But there's something you ought to know before you get to Broadway. It's about money. It takes more money to float a musical comedy than it takes to finance a war. Well, a small war anyway.

Suppose you're already here and want to get going. A musical comedy has to have scenery. Just to build the scenery costs $8,500. Then you have it painted and that costs $6,500 more. After that you spend $7,500 for draperies.

Meanwhile the man who designs your production asks—and gets—$3,500. And the man who designs the costumes asks for—and gets—$2,000. You'll need at least $5,500 worth of furniture for the stage, and then you come to the real money. Folding money this time—$22,000 for costumes.

ALL this time, of course, the cast is rehearsing, and their salaries will eat up $5,500. This does not include the book director, who is paid $2,500, or the dance director, who gets $3,500. Other quick incidentals include orchestra expenses, $1,500; orchestrations, $2,500; electric equipment (spots, etc.), $3,500; advertising, $2,000; rehearsal halls, pianos, etc., $4,500; legal fees; office rent, $2,000, and, of course, dress rehearsal expenses of $3,500, and out of town losses for four weeks (trials) at $3.500 each week.

Then you get to Broadway and have that big first night, that big premiere. It may be that this performance will be the last. Frequently bad reviews mean the end of everything. And when this happens, all those weeks and months and hopes are for nothing. All that money is beyond recall. It's a lot of money. You add it up. I haven't the heart.

* * *

REMEMBER John W. Gates, of "Bet you a million" fame? You probably don't. He's dead. He's been dead a long time, but he was a gay figure in his day.

I used to hear a lot about Gates lighting his cigars with $5 bills. It was one of the legends that have followed his memory.

Well, it never happened. Gates didn't do that. But he used to spend $5 each for his cigars. If you go to the Biltmore hotel's main cigar stand and ask for James Pelton you'll find a man who used to get all of Gates's cigars for him.

What about those stogies, Mr. Pelton?

"Well, they cost $5, all right. They were 'vintage' cigars. They were about 11 inches long and each one bore his name on the band. They weighed over six ounces.

"Mr. Gates used to buy them by the hundred and keep them in a humidor at the old Waldorf-Astoria Segar Co. He gave them away to all his friends. They were made of the finest Havana tobacco. I never saw him light one with a $5 note, but you can say that every time he smoked one he burned up five dollars."

You don's hear much of "vintage" cigars in America any more, but you do in England. The way to tell a good vintage cigar is to hold it to your ear and pinch off the end. If you hear a dry, crackling crunch, it's okay. Americans don't like that.

A Farmer's Diary

Old House, Old Tree, Old Man.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I HAVE often wondered what makes the little house so charming. It has been there since I can remember—low, gray and old upon the hilltop, with a cedar tree behind it and a springhouse in the draw to the left. The cedar is gnarled and knotty, with crooked, bulging limbs that reach protectingly toward the wide eaves of the house. Its roots go down into the sandstone rocks and find staunch footing, for it has breasted the winds for many years. The winds, in fact, have shaped it as it is. It leans a little, and its heavy top flows back away from the direction of the prevailing winds, like a woman's garments.

Today as I drove along, I saw an old man leave the house door and tremblingly descend the steps to the road where the mailbox stood. His hair, under his old black hat, was white. His shoulders stooped. His hand, raised toward the box, was thin and veined with blue.

I stopped. "Good day," I said. He turned, and a pair of keen, quizzical gray eyes looked at me, straight, from under shaggy brows.

"Do you live here?" I asked him.

"No—happens not. I'm visitin' a week or two. I was born in that house, though. My nephew owns it—why?"

"It's a charming place," I said. "It's very old, and very well preserved. I have always admired it."

The old man's wide mouth twitched, and a twinkle came into his eye. He seemed to find me amusing.

"There be a few people in the world who like old things," he said. "I do myself. There be even a few who think old folks are interestin'...but they're mostly not so young themselves. A fellow gets so he can read the year-marks and the fight scars after awhile, whether he's lookin' at a tree, or a house or a man. That's so, ain't it?"

"Yes," I agreed. "A house or a tree with no struggle in its past wouldn't be so interesting."

He chuckled audibly. "They'd be as bad as an old woman without any wrinkles," he averred. "She wouldn't be real comfortable to be around."

I drove on, smiling. Old age can be so stimulating, sometimes.

INSPECTION OF MILK SUPPLY OPENS IN CITY

Semi-Annual Grading Period Gets Under Way; Check 25 Dairies.

Health department sanitation officers today were engaged in a periodical inspection of Mansfield's milk supply preparatory to the semi-annual announcement of milk grades.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, said that 25 dairies distributing milk products in Mansfield were being inspected by sanitary officers as required under the United States Public Health Service milk ordinance which was adopted by the Mansfield board of health more than three years ago.

The inspections he said would include 17 dairies distributing raw milk products and nine pasteurization plants. The inspections are expected to be completed by Dec. 31. Grades will be announced early next month.

Grading of the milk is based on the product itself and on various points of sanitation in production and distribution. Dr. Rehder said.

Dairies who fail to meet the standards set forth in the ordinance have their product "degraded" by health authorities. The "degrading period" is in force only as long as the dairy fails to meet the sanitary requirements. In no case is the distributor allowed to retail a "degraded" product for more than 30 days, the commissioner added.

During the degrading period all bottle caps are required to show the grade of milk. The ordinance permits the sale of grade "A" raw and grade "A" and "B" pasteurized milk.

Strict enforcement of the ordinance was ordered early this year after the health board tabled a mandatory measure designed to allow only pasteurized milk products to be sold in the city.
